SAYS COOK COUNTY NEEDS $26,500,000 FOR JOBLESS

Relief Chairman Tells Senate Group Only $13,500,000 Is Available for Whole State.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—An estimate Cook County alone would need $26,500,000 for relief up to Sept. 1, 1932, was made today by E. L. Ryerson Jr., Chicago, before the Senate Manufacturers Committee.

Ryerson, chairman of the Governor's Commission on Unemployment, told the committee $13,500,000 of private funds were available for the whole state.

"A considerable amount from some source must be secured or many destitute will suffer," he said.

He presented statistics of the State Labor Department to show, as of Oct. 15, that 424,000 were unemployed in Chicago and Cook County, and 425,000 in the other counties of the State.

"The total in the State as a whole," he said, "is at least 1,100,000. It undoubtedly has increased since October."

WOMEN WHO LEFT ST. LOUIS IN PLANE ARE UNREPORTED

Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Stanford Fail to Reach Harrisburg, Pa., on Journey From Pittsburg.

AIRMAN TO MAKE SEARCH FOR THEM

Pair Planning Buenos Aires Flight Thought to Have Made Forced Landing in Fog.

By the Associated Press. HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 6.—Six planes will take off here as soon as weather conditions permit to search for Mrs. Ruth Stewart of St. Louis and Mrs. Debie Stanford of Indianapolis, who are unreported on a flight from Pittsburg, Pa., to New York.

The white monoplane in which the women were flying was last sighted late yesterday afternoon over Starrett Gap, 15 miles north of here, by W. Gentry Shelton of St. Louis, flying a plane in which Mr. and Mrs. William F. Woerner, parents of Mrs. Stewart, were passengers.

On landing here last night Shelton reported that both ships went into a fog over the gap and, when he emerged, the other plane had disappeared.

It is thought probable that Mrs. Stewart, who was at the controls, and her companion made a forced landing in an isolated section, and have been unable to communicate with airport officials. On the other hand, there is some apprehension as to their safety.

Shelton did not wait for the weather to clear, setting out alone in a plane. He returned after two hours without having sighted the missing ship. He reported that flying conditions in the vicinity of Starrett's Gap, a deep cut in the mountain chain, were poor, affording little opportunity to examine the terrain carefully. He plans another flight later in the day.

A similar report was made by Pilot Dick Loehner of this city, following a short flight in the vicinity of the gap.

Ground searches, led by Deputy Sheriff, were augmented by troops of the Pennsylvania National Guard, who are riding over sections of Cumberland and Perry counties.

A constant check of Eastern airports last night and today failed to provide any trace of the women flyers. Their plane, which left Pittsburg at 11:30 a. m. yesterday, carried fuel sufficient to keep them in the air about 20 hours.

Left St. Louis Thursday Planning Flight to Buenos Aires.

Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Stanford left Lambert-St. Louis Field last Thursday for New York preparatory to a proposed flight of 5,000 miles from New York to Buenos Aires, their intention being to break the present record of five and a half days for the trip to Argentina.

Mrs. Stewart, 26 years old, is the wife of Alcee W. Stewart Jr., a salesman for his father's lumber company at 6261 Washington boulevard.

onds, and landing, they explained, only when a crack developed in the engine crankcase.

The second endurance flight was not financially successful, and Jackson and O'Brien failed to complete the record of their achievement, which was not officially recognized by the National Aeronautic Association.

Between endurance flights Jackson undertook the organization of a national pilots' union, but gave this up, and became interested for a time in a night club. His last appearance in a national event was at the Cleveland air races, where he competed in the Thompson trophy race, finishing third.

Jackson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson of Fairbury, Neb. He was secretly married in 1927, his wife, Sally, becoming known through her constant attendance at the first endurance flight. He was 26 years old and resided near Lambert-St. Louis Field.

trial Museum testified to his civic helpfulness. His work as a dollar a year man in the World War and a gift of $1,000,000 in 1913 to the Council of Grain Exchanges for research work in crop improvement, were evidences of his patriotism. In 1923 the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Research Foundation was established as a step in actual farm relief through scientific marketing. But his delight was in helpful philanthropy.

"Charity," Mr. Rosenwald said, "is the one pleasure that never wears out."

His known benefactions totaled around $25,000,000. When in 1922 he reached three score years, he celebrated his birthday by giving away $857,500.

He was a firm believer in giving so that the living would be benefited. Foundations designed to aid future generations did not appeal to him and he often cited perpetuities which had outlived their usefulness but could not be changed legally despite the fact that their funds were idle and their capital increasing.

His interest in the Negro was aroused by Booker T. Washington, Negro educator and head of Tuskegee Institute. From donations to the institute, the interest developed into a campaign for primary and secondary schools for Negroes.

The Rosenwald Fund, Negroes and whites co-operated, started to work by the end of 1920 and 5075 schools for Negro children, housed in clean, modern, airy buildings, dotted the Southern states from Maryland to Texas.

Establishment in Chicago of the first Negro Y. M. C. A. was largely through Mr. Rosenwald's efforts. After several years of successful operation of the institution, he made a standing offer of $25,000 for a similar Christian center for Negroes. As a result more than $25,000 was given by him for such buildings in many cities.

Mr. Rosenwald's Jewish charities were more direct and larger than his Negro benefactions. He spent $5,000,000 to help put Russian Jewish farmers back on land in the Crimea after they had been displaced in other sections of Russia. Other hundreds of thousands were given to similar Jewish-colonization plans, although he never believed in the Zionist movement for establishing a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

Other Help for Jews. In February, 1921, Mr. Rosenwald headed a committee of 25 Jews who visited the stricken peoples of Europe. This was in preparation for a campaign conducted by the American Jewish Relief Committee which brought $14,000,000 in contributions.

He subsequently gave $1,000,000 for Jewish relief and colonization in Europe, subscribed $5,000,000 to the American Jewish Joint Agricultural Corporation, gave $5,000,000 to the Jewish Theological Seminary as a memorial to Louis Marshall, noted lawyer, and aided financially libraries and museums of the Near East.

He received the Gethsemani medal of Zeta Beta Tau, national Jewish college fraternity, for the greatest service to Jewry in 1928, and the same year he received the Harmon Foundation award for his services in improving the relations between white people and Negroes.

He also was credited for the union of American Hebrew congregations, although many of the congregations were the target of his criticism when he charged extravagance of wine under the guise of religion.

Mr. Rosenwald was born in a house close to the home of Abraham Lincoln in Springfield, Ill., Aug. 12, 1862, and was one of five children. His two brothers and two sisters reside in Chicago. The mother of the family, Mrs. Augusta Rosenwald, died there on Feb. 4, 1921. She was born in Germany, came to America in 1853 and married Samuel R. Rosenwald in Baltimore in 1857.

Of his boyhood, Julius Rosenwald often said: "I was uneducated in the public schools. From Springfield he went when 16 to New York as a clerk in the clothing store of Hammerslough Brothers, conducted by his uncles. At 21 he opened a store of his own on Fifth avenue but it had indifferent success.

His next venture was partnership in Chicago with Julius Weil. Beginning in 1885 the firm manufactured clothing. In 1895 it became Rosenwald & Co., and sold much of its output to R. W. Sears, a mail order house. At that time Sears needed more capital and Mr. Rosenwald bought a half interest in the business for $70,000. A year later he became vice president and in 1910 when Mr. Sears died he was made president of the concern. By 1916 the half interest in Sears, Roebuck & Co. had become worth $150,000.

Mr. Rosenwald established the revolutionary policy in the mail order business of refunding purchase money to dissatisfied customers without question. The wisdom of this step was attested by the growth of his house. From $11,000,000 in 1900, the sales jumped to $50,000,000 in 1906, to $100,000,000 in 1914 and $270,000,000 in 1919.

"A man who thinks much and talks little—a man of action," was a colleague's description of the commercial leader who directed this growth of the new business giant.

He Married Twice. Mr. Rosenwald was married twice. His first wife was Augusta Nusbaum of Chicago. She died in May, 1925, and the following January he married the mother-in-law of his eldest son, Lessing Rosenwald. She was Mrs. Adelaide Goodkind, widow of a merchant at St. Paul, Minn.

The wedding took place at the Leasing Rosenwald home near Philadelphia. By a prenuptial agreement Mrs. Goodkind received $1,000,000 and waived dower rights in the Rosenwald estate.

Probably the most difficult period in his busy life came in the winter of 1921, when the post war deflation and business depression struck the mail order house. Sales fell off more than $75,000,000 and when it became apparent that $16,000,000 inventory losses would have

DEMOCRAT NAMED TO HOUSE FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

William N. Rogers, Wet, Elected by Nearly 3000 Majority in District Normally Republican.

By the Associated Press. MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 6.—William N. Rogers of Wakefield, a wet Democrat, was elected to Congress from the First New Hampshire District, normally Republican and represented by a dry since 1925.

He is the first Democrat to represent the State in Congress in 10 years and was the last of his party to serve in the House from New Hampshire.

Former Governor John H. Bartlett, his Republican opponent for the seat made vacant by the death of Fletcher Hale, received 24,505 votes to 27,453 for Rogers. Lacombe, home of Hale and a Republican stronghold, gave the Democratic candidate a small majority.

Republicans and Democrats alike saw in Bartlett's defeat a rebuff to the administration.

Weather conditions played a part in the special election, as heavy snow and severe cold in the rural Republican strongholds kept many from the polls.

Rogers, advocating repeal of prohibition and attacking the programs and policies of the Republican administration, received strong national support from his party. In addition to Joseph House, who at the convention at which Rogers was nominated, Senator David I. Walsh and Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts campaigned for him.

Bartlett, aided by Senator George H. Moses and Gov. John G. Winant of his own state, made his campaign on a platform indorsing the Hoover administration and favoring a high tariff which, he said, would benefit greatly New Hampshire industries, particularly its shoe centers.

The first attempt of Rogers for a seat in Congress was unsuccessful, but in 1922 he changed the normally Republican majority of 15,000 in the First District into a Democratic majority of more than 6000 and subsequently went to Washington to become one of the youngest members of the House of Representatives. He will be 40 on Jan. 12, defeated for reelection by Hale in 1924.

RESOLUTION TO IMPEACH MELLON OFFERED IN HOUSE
By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A resolution seeking the impeachment of Secretary Mellon was introduced in the House today by Representative Fattman (Dem., Tex.).

"On my own responsibility," Fattman told the House, "I impeach Andrew W. Mellon of high crimes and misdemeanors."

The House, silent as Fattman spoke, facing the chamber crowded with Representatives who had just answered a roll call.

Fattman based his charges on a statute of 1789 forbidding a Treasury head from engaging in commerce. He said Mellon owned voting stock in 300 corporations with combined assets of $3,000,000,000.

"Since becoming Secretary, Mellon has been the owner, in whole or in part, of many sea vessels competing with other vessels in commerce," the Texan said. "The Government will spend several million dollars on public buildings supervised by the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury. Mellon is the principal owner of the Aluminum Co. of America. More aluminum now is used in the construction of public buildings than ever before."

Fattman's resolution for the investigation was referred to the House Judiciary Committee by a viva voce vote.

Immediately afterward the House adjourned, no one answering the Fattman accusations.

to be written off the 1921 balance sheet. Mr. Rosenwald pledged $20,000,000 of his personal fortune to see the business through. He purchased company real estate valued at $16,000,000 and donated 50,000 shares of Sears Roebuck stock to the company treasury, with the option of re-purchase within three years.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 6.—Pay cuts for all municipal employees—ranging from 10 per cent on salaries under $4000 to a maximum of 17 per cent—were voted by the City Council last night as an emergency measure to tide the city over a financial crisis.

The crisis, as depicted by City Controller G. Hall Rosenwald, included the impossibility of meeting payrolls falling due between now and Jan. 30.

New York financiers, he said, had guaranteed loans to cover all payroll expenses until June 30 if salaries were reduced.

Officials expect to save $1,300,000 by the ordinance. A similar sum is to be saved by the Board of Education, which is considering asking all teachers to serve without pay during the closing weeks of the school year.

wrote for information or sent representatives to get it," the witness replied.

"And you often discussed it with the State Department?" "Yes, these loans were frequent subjects of discussion among the members of our division, the economic advisors of the State Department, and Treasury officials."

"Do you know of any large American concern which has concessions in Bolivia?" "The Standard Oil Co. of California has a Government concession to exploit the oil resources of the Eastern part of the country."

Issued Bulletin on Colombia. Jones related that James C. Corliss, his assistant, made an analysis in 1928 of the condition of Government finances in Colombia. He found them extremely precarious, and composed a bulletin giving the facts.

Two years later a syndicate composed of the National City Co., the Illinois Trust Co. and the First National Bank of Boston loaned $20,000,000 of Colombia. "The State Department," he added, "felt that it should make a concession."

In reply to Johnson's text question, Jones testified that, shortly before the State Department approved this loan, the Colombian Government had canceled an oil concession owned largely by the Gulf Oil Co., a Mellon concern.

After the loan was granted, the concession was restored to the company, he said. The renewal occurred within the last year.

$800,000,000 in Default. Other countries to which the bankers loaned money obtained from American bond buyers included Brazil, Chile and Argentina. In many instances the bonds were issued after Commerce Department officials had given warning. In every instance, the State Department gave its approval.

He said the total net profits of Speyer & Co. on all these post-war foreign loans was $1,806,000. He was the first banker to disclose his net profits to the committee. Others have insisted it was impossible to more than give the "gross spread."

"Not So Good as All That." Speyer fulfilled the popular conception of an international banker more completely than any who had preceded him. He is a little man, with a soft voice and broken accent. He was garbed in black, with a wing collar, black stock tie and starched cuffs.

Two members of his firm, Edgar and Herbert Speyer, live in Edgartown-on-Main, Germany, where they conduct another banking establishment. The witness related that his father sold bonds in Europe before and after the Civil War to finance the building of American railroads. The name of Rothschild occurred frequently in his testimony.

"It is our practice to do business always with the leading bankers in each country where we operate," he said.

Speyer testified that, after the Great War, the Allies arranged for a $70,000,000 loan to Hungary, with the League of Nations supervising the expenditure of the money.

it. There may have been other exceptions."

Session With Banker Speyer. Earlier in the day the committee had engaged in a colorful session with James Speyer, senior partner of the firm of Speyer & Co., at the close of which Speyer said he "wished to dissipate the general impression that international bankers have horns and hooves like the devil."

"That's true," Johnson retorted, "but neither are you supermen. Three years ago you gentlemen were standing on a pedestal, universally admired and respected as economic geniuses and wizards of finance. Now you have been stripped of all that, and everyone knows that you are just ordinary people like the rest of us."

Speyer & Co., since the war, has participated in foreign bond issues totaling $688,000,000.

Speyer, member of a family which has conducted banking houses in Europe and the United States for about a century, gave a picturesque recital of financing operations in many quarters of the globe. His firm sold securities to American investors of Greece, Hungary, Brazil, Bulgaria and many other foreign nations and foreign corporations. Some were good and some are in default.

Where the Young Brothers Made Their Last Stand and Houston Chief of Police Who Trapped the Desperadoes

COTTAGE in Houston, Tex., where Harry and Jennings Young, Springfield, Mo., desperadoes, ended their lives when trapped by police. Below: CHIEF OF POLICE PERCY HEARD of Houston adjusting a gas mask just before he entered the house where he found one brother dead and the other fatally wounded. Tear gas had been used to rout the outlaws.

identified by S. C. Hoover of Marshallfield, Mo. 7 as goods stolen from his store the night of Oct. 26. Besides dresses, traveling bags and other wearing apparel, $5 was taken in the robbery of that and another Marshallfield store the night before Thanksgiving.

Houston Police Chief Tells Story of Youngs' Last Stand.

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 6.—Percy Heard, Houston Chief of Police, told the following story last night of the end of the Young brothers, Missouri desperadoes: "For the past two days we had been running down clues and information as to the Young brothers, who were wanted for the murder of six officers in Springfield, Mo. We missed Harry Young about 25 minutes at his sister-in-law's house yesterday. Our boys continued to search, running down every clue that came to hand.

"This morning a man came to my house, stating that last night he rented a room to two men and that the photograph he saw in the paper resembled one of them quite a bit, and from the way he talked it looked very much like they were the Young boys.

"I called my office and eight of the men came out to my house. We then planned to search this house, which was on Walker avenue. Before doing this, I had this man go to the house and make sure that his wife had left, so as not to get any innocent party hurt. We waited two blocks from the house until he did this. He came back and said the house was clear and thought these men were still in the room he had rented to them.

"We then went to this house and surrounded it as quickly as we could. Two lieutenants and myself entered the front door, the rest of the men surrounding the house. As soon as we were in the hall, there were three shots fired from the bathroom door. Lieut. Beverly returned the fire with one shot from his shotgun, then one of the Young boys hollered and said, 'Come get us, we are dead.' Then I heard some more shots.

"These shots I figure, were the ones they shot committing suicide. Believing that this may have been a ruse, I then shot three shells of tear gas, two in the bedroom window and one in the bathroom window. By this time the gas was so strong that we could not stand it ourselves. When the gas cleared and we could stand it with a gas mask, we went into the bathroom and found Jennings Young dead, the two pistols lying near his right hand with his head and Harry Young still breathing.

"We sent Harry Young to the hospital (where he died) and the Justice of the Peace came to hold an inquest over Jennings Young. 'I feel that we are very fortunate that none of our boys were hurt, at the same time we had the house surrounded so as to keep anyone from escaping.'

"Harry Young and Jennings Young shot each other. The coroner decided. The police believed it was a double suicide. The Youngs had rented a room in the house the night before. The owner, J. F. Tomlinson, recognized Harry from a picture he saw in a local newspaper and reported their presence to police.

Souvenir hunters have added to the destruction incident to the raid at the little green cottage. Slightly early this morning were still stopping at the house to trim a bit of green from the hedge or remove a loose brick. Even the front porch trellis was broken by souvenir hunters.

Governor to Attend Memorial Service for Sheriff.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 6.—Gov. Caulfield will go to Springfield Saturday to attend memorial services for the six peace officers who were slain last Saturday while attempting to capture Harry Young. # FINGERPRINT CHIEF CLEW IN WOMAN'S MURDER IN HOME

Clear Photograph Developed From Impression on Paper Wrapped Around Pipe Used as Weapon.

One clearly developed fingerprint is the chief clew in the investigation of the mysterious daylight murder of Mrs. Etta Sauer, Maplewood housewife and Sunday school worker, in her home at 1104 Walter avenue, Monday.

The St. Louis Bertillon Bureau, co-operating with the Maplewood police and county officers in the inquiry, today announced that it had developed the fingerprint from the thin white wrapping paper rolled about one end of the piece of iron pipe with which Mrs. Sauer was beaten to death.

By the use of fingerprint powder, Bertillon experts were able to bring out from the folded paper a clear print, which will be compared with the prints on file in the bureau, and with those of any suspect who may be arrested.

The Bertillon Bureau announced the print did not correspond with any of the fingerprints of the murdered woman's husband, Louis E. Sauer, which he furnished for comparison. At the coroner's inquest, which resulted yesterday in an open verdict of homicide, Sauer told of being at his downtown office, and calling on downtown customers, through the business day Monday.

Chief of Police Ryan of Maplewood was informed today, by a resident of that suburb whom he did not name, that two men, in a dark-colored Dodge sedan, accosted him about 9 a. m. Monday near the City Limits car line loop, on Manchester avenue, and that one of them asked, "Where do the Sauers live, on Walter avenue?" The man replied that he did not know the Sauers, but that Walter avenue was west of Big Bend boulevard. This was incorrect, as Walter is east of Big Bend. About 3 p. m., the Chief was told, two men in a similar car asked another man, on Manchester three blocks west of Big Bend, to be directed to Walter avenue. The second man told them where Walter avenue was, and they drove in that direction.

Husband Offers Reward. Sauer, head of the L. E. Sauer Machine Co., 904-96 South Fourth street, and principal of the junior department of Centenary Methodist Sunday school, today announced his offer of a reward of $1000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of his wife's slayer.

No definite lead developed at the inquest, held at an undertaking establishment in Overland, or in the police investigation which preceded it, and which is being continued. In the closely built neighborhood, near Big Bend boulevard and the Missouri Pacific tracks, no one has been found who saw the approach of any person who might have entered the Sauer dwelling, committed the crime and departed.

REAL ESTATE MAN ARRESTED IN ROW OVER DEED OF TRUST

George Obermeyer Charged With Taking Document He Says Is His Property.

George Obermeyer, 6231 South Grand boulevard, a real estate dealer, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging larceny in the theft of a deed of trust for $2500, snatched from the hands of Samuel Sigloff, grocer at 2630 Cherokee street. He was released on bond.

Obermeyer had been at liberty under bond since his arrest last March 22, a day after the deed had been taken from Sigloff. The Circuit Attorney's office, had been considering since then his contention that the deed was rightly his, not Sigloff's, and that he had lost possession of it through the operations of his brother, Arthur Obermeyer, who was sent, according to conviction of his wife's slayer, on for 12 years for forgery in April, 1930.

Obermeyer, Sigloff said, induced him to show him the deed so that he could compare signatures on it with those on a duplicate he held. When the deed was produced, he said, the real estate dealer grabbed it and ran from the store.

CHICAGO'S PLIGHT DRAWS RIDICULE OF LONDON PAPER

'Sins of (City) Fathers Visited on Children'—Paying for 'Big Bill'.

By the Associated Press LONDON, Jan. 6.—Observing Chicago's financial troubles, the London Evening Star strikes back at the city where "Big Bill" Thompson used to rule.

"The sins of (the city) fathers are being visited on the children of Chicago," says an editorial today. "Let us hope it will not extend into the third and fourth generation."

"Chicago is in the position of some bankrupt Balkan village. Her school teachers have had no pay for nine months. Her debt is $60,000,000 and the mayor is trying to get the well-to-do citizens to subsidize the city. Schools are closing and, as a last touch of tragic fate, the parents are told that their children can get their education from American broadcasting."

"While Big Bill Thompson was insulting King George and burning British classics the important citizens of Chicago enjoyed the joke. There is nobody in Chicago now to make a joke about it. For the lesson is too plain that civic virtue is the foundation of fortune and success."

"We may not be as sick as they are in Chicago, but our rogues, at least, have to be more clever than theirs."

HEAVY SNOW IN MINNESOTA

By the Associated Press ST. PAUL, Jan. 6.—The heaviest snowfall since April, 1923, delayed traffic in parts of Minnesota and Iowa today. Southern Minnesota and Northwestern Iowa had as much as 15 inches and other places up to 7, including the twin cities.

Wind drifted highways were impassable in some places. Temperatures ranged from 14 to 30 degrees below zero.

By the front door, leaving the door locked as it was later found. There was no indication of an attempt at robbery, or of any other motive for the crime.

The key to the front door, which usually was kept inside the door, is missing. The lock is an old-fashioned one, which locks only by turning the key. The windows were fastened and the rear doors bolted. Fourteen-year-old Betty Sauer carried the duplicate key, and used it in entering the house when she and her brother, Bobby, came home from school, about 4 o'clock.

The murder, as has been told, occurred between 10 a. m., when Mrs. Sauer gave a telephone order for groceries, and the time of the children's return. At noon, Bobby Sauer returned to the house, but finding the door locked, went to the neighbor's home for lunch. About the same time a delivery clerk left the groceries at the back door, after knocking.

The funeral of Mrs. Sauer will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Centenary Methodist Church, Sixteenth and Pine streets, where she and her husband were members since their marriage, and where for several years both had been exceptionally active in the Sunday school.

HUNTERS CLEARED OF CRUELTY

Englishmen Were Accused Because Deer Swam Out to Sea.

By the Associated Press LONDON, Jan. 6.—The master of the Midkent stag hounds and secretary of the hunt were acquitted today of cruelty in hunting deer and the magistrate dismissed the summonses against them.

The summonses charged they caused "unnecessary suffering to a tame deer by unreasonably hunting it," that they "caused the deer to be cruelly terrified," and that they "caused the deer to be cruelly ill-treated." Last November a tame hind took to the sea and swam far out from shore to escape the pursuing hounds. The Royal S. P. C. A. Counsel introduced the evidence in the case.

DIES AT 79

CHARLES S. BROWN.

CHARLES S. BROWN'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

Service for Founder of Wood-Working Machine Co. in Huntleigh Village.

Funeral services for Charles S. Brown, co-founder of the Hall & Brown Woodworking Machine Co., who died of the infirmities of age yesterday, will be held at the family residence, "Brown Oaks," in Huntleigh Village at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Since his retirement as president of the woodworking machine company five years ago, Mr. Brown, who was 75 years old, has been chairman of the board of directors, but has not participated in active work.

Born at Brown's Mills, N. J., Mr. Brown was educated in Quaker schools, where he learned pattern-making. In 1877 he and Gorham O. Hall, a machinist and fellow-worker at Smithville, N. J., came to St. Louis and opened a shop at Seventh and Corne streets. The site of the present plant at 1913 North Broadway was occupied several years later. The company celebrated its fiftieth anniversary in 1927.

Mr. Brown was also a director of the Frost Lumber Industries, Inc., with offices in the Boatmen's Bank Building. He was a former president of the National Association of Manufacturers of Woodworking Machinery.

Mr. Brown returned to New Jersey in 1880 and married Miss Sarah Warren, who survives him. A son, Alfred W. Brown, and a daughter, Mrs. C. F. Pringman, both of St. Louis, also survive.

"Brown Oaks," on Lindbergh boulevard, was purchased and developed by Mr. Brown in 1912, when the district was entirely rural. It is now surrounded by other large estates.

Woman Clerk at Hotel Arrested for Setting Up Punchboard.

Miss Claire Voigtman, clerk at the cigar counter at the Maryland Hotel, was arrested last night on a charge of setting up a gambling device after a guest at the hotel reported he had played a punchboard at the cigar counter.

The arrest was made on complaint of Anthony Guymon, Minneapolis, Minn., who asserted that one of six chances he took on the punchboard entitled him to the first prize of $10, which, he said, Miss Voigtman refused to pay. Miss Voigtman, who gave her address as 2823 St. Louis avenue, furnished $500 bond.

For Telephone Shopping Service—Call CENTRAL 6506BENNETT CLARK LIKELY TO RUN AS A WETAction Expected Because Hay Is Dry and Howell Has Avoided Issue.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

In view of the fact that Charles
M. Howell of Kansas City, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, avoided mention of prohibition in his "platform" issued a week ago, it now is anticipated by Democrats generally that Col. Bennett C. Clark, opposing Howell and Charles M. Hay for the senatorial nomination, will take a wet stand.Clark is expected to issue a synopsis of his positions on public questions within the next few days, probably by Friday when there will be a state-wide gathering of Democrats at the annual Jackson day dinner in Springfield. Hay, though attempting to minimize the importance of prohibition in this campaign, has stood by his record as a dry. Howell tried to avoid the issue.It is generally conceded by politicians that Hay, because of his many years' record as a dry leader, will command the support of the drys, and it is not probable that any other candidate can take any material part of this strength from him, even though he refuses to recognize prohibition as a major campaign issue.By taking a wet stand Clark will put himself in a position to line up fairly solidly the wet voters in the Democratic party, and this regardless of how far he may go in his statement. While there appears no doubt that Clark will declare himself, the information as to whether he will support a proposal to repeal the eighteenth amendment, or to modify it, or whether he will go no farther than favor a resubmission of the prohibition amendment to a vote of the states must await his formal statement.So far as Howell is concerned, it is difficult for the politicians to foresee that he will be able to command any material strength other than the votes which can be thrown to him by the Pendergast organization in Kansas City, and considerable doubt is expressed that Pendergast can deliver votes for Howell in the same proportion that he usually can for his picked candidates.Previous elections have shown that there are several thousand dry Democrats in Kansas City who ordinarily follow Pendergast, but who vote for Hay when he is a candidate. There are reports from Kansas City that there also are several thousand Pendergast followers who will break away if given the opportunity to vote for a candidate publicly known as a wet, even though the word might be quietly passed out from the Pendergast headquarters that Howell was "satisfactory to the wets."It is not unlikely that Clark's statement will be issued on the eve of the gathering at Springfield, when it might be expected to be a chief topic of conversation.

Ministers' Retreat Tomorrow.

An interdenominational ministers' retreat will be held tomorrow at the Episcopal Church of St.
Michael and St. George, Wydown and Ellenwood avenues, with local ministers as leaders for 15 and 30 minute periods and the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt as program chairman.

29,000 RECEIVE HELP OF CLOTHING BUREAU

Citizens' Committee Reports
Giving Out 175,000
Garments in Year.

The Clothing Bureau, maintained by Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment at 2218 Locust street, supplied 29,000 persons with about 175,000 garments last year, according to figures compiled by Mrs. Irvin Bettman, chairman of the bureau.

Established Jan. 19, 1931, as a central agency for meeting the clothing needs of relief organizations, the bureau provides clothing for applicants who present requisitions issued by the Provident Association, Red Cross, Jewish Community Center, Salvation Army, Bureau for Homeless Men and the Citizens' Application Bureau. These organizations issued 15,775 requisitions.

The clothing bureau has a pressing machine, six sewing machines, and a complete shoe repair department. Forty-eight sewing groups have contributed their services in reconditioning old garments and making new ones. Last year they made 4183 new garments. Clothing and shoes in need of repairs are reconditioned before being issued. If a requisition for shoes is presented, and the order cannot be filled, the shoes worn by the applicant may be repaired while he waits. Assisting Mrs. Bettman as co-chairmen are Mrs. Louise D. Stark, Mrs. Paul Treumann and Mrs. Roy K. Lockhart. A staff of volunteers assists each day during the distribution hours, 9 a. m. until noon. Garments so worn that they cannot be reclaimed are sold as rags, and the proceeds used to buy new material used in making repairs or new garments.

Much of the clothing which has passed through the bureau was donated the week before a school opened when an intensive campaign for contributions was made. This stock has now been exhausted, and the bureau depends on contributions as they come in from day to day. Bundles are sent to the bureau's headquarters on Locust street, or are called for if donors telephone to Central 3365 and ask for collection service.

The greatest shortage now, Mrs. Bettman said, is in clothing for men and children. "Women seem to discard their clothing when they tip of it," she said, "but men and children apparently keep theirs until it is worn out."

"Right now we are entirely out of men's trousers, and most of the time we have insufficient men's clothing to fill the demand. It seems especially hard to get men's shoes, underwear, socks and overcoats, and children's blouses, bloomers, underwear and shoes."

Two Killed in Landslide in Spain. By the Associated Press. ZAMORA, Spain, Jan. 6.—Two persons were killed and a third was seriously injured in a landslide in the town of Muelas Del Pan yesterday.

MANSLAUGHTER INDICTMENT IN TWO SAFETY ZONE DEATHS

John Bagy, Truck Driver, Formally Accused of Accident at Broadway and Bates.

An indictment returned yesterday charges John Bagy, a heating contractor of 4044 Shaw boulevard, with manslaughter in the deaths of two persons who were struck by his truck in a safety zone at Broadway and Bates street Dec. 4.

Those killed were Mrs. Alice Stephenson, 4485 Wilcox avenue, and Mathias Kauten, a machinist of 5339 West avenue. Three other persons were injured when the truck swept through the safety zone.

Inquest witnesses testified Bagy drove directly into the zone and estimated his speed as high as 40 miles an hour. Bagy told police he was blinded by headlights of another automobile.

Best Remedy for Common Coughs, Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a severe cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membrane. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the granular phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for incipient bronchial coughs and other severe coughs due to colds.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BLAINE DENOUNCES HOOVER'S FINANCE CORPORATION BILL

when offered or made available may come too late."

Record of Bank Failures.

The report said "the record of failures for the past year (1931) has been unprecedentedly high, the banks closed numbering 2390."

It said the total assets of banks which have been closed since October, 1929, now amount to more than $2,000,000,000.

Senator Walcott has said the measure is broad enough to permit loans to closed banks that are solvent, although passage of a separate bill will be necessary to permit aid to closed and insolvent banks.

"Several serious failures involving the funds of a great number of depositors in many cities and towns throughout the country have lately occurred," the report continued.

"This series of failures must be stopped, and as soon as possible. Many banks now in danger are not members of the Federal Reserve System.

"Other institutions, although members, have no paper eligible for discount in the Federal Reserve, and hence are in no position to apply for aid.

"Still other institutions have found their assets so greatly impaired through the depreciation of their market value that their capital has been practically exhausted.

"The new reconstruction corporation now proposed will be free from most of the conventional restrictions upon lending, and, wisely managed, should be able to rescue many situations which otherwise will grow rapidly worse."

Railroads' Predicament.

Observing that the railroads are in "an extremely embarrassing predicament," the report said "the roads made the same error that was committed by many other large borrowers in supposing, before the collapse of 1929, that they could with safety borrow on short term and without much doubt obtain renewals from the banks when maturities occur, or failing in that, could fund their obligations into long-term bonds.

"In this they have been disappointed owing to the over-anxiety of many banks to keep liquid, and owing also to the lack of general confidence which has kept many institutions from buying even the most gilt-edged securities at bargain prices.

"It is becoming increasingly difficult to market the bonds of even the best roads and the market price of railroad bonds in general is becoming so depressed that the financial institutions holding this class of paper are unable to realize on them."

The committee's hearings showed "a marked increase of borrowing from insurance companies by their policyholders."

"Consequently this proposed bill is needed to protect the insurance companies against the serious deterioration in the market value of their securities," the report said, as they have had to realize on their securities to meet the demands.

Concerning a committee amendment to the original bill providing for loans to exporters of goods, the report said, "our export trade at present is without the usual and necessary means of support essential to its normal existence."

Two Billions of Credit.

This legislation is to create a reconstruction finance corporation able to float $2,000,000,000 of credit. An almost identical bill is going through final committee stages in the House, with a report due Friday.

As reported to the Senate, the bill contains amendments to the original administration draft. One of these, the particular objective of Senator Glass of Virginia, would make it impossible for the Federal Reserve System to take as collateral any of the $1,500,000,000 of debentures which the corporation will issue to secure its remaining capital. The reserve banks, however, may buy these bonds on the same basis as other eligible non-government securities.

also known as "Bow-wow," Edward O'Hara and Tommie Hayes. O'Connor and Lee were convicted in the Lincoln bank robbery and were sentenced to 25 years each in the penitentiary. Britt was tried twice in the same case, but in both cases the jury failed to agree and the indictment was finally dismissed.

O'Hara went to Indiana to face a liquor charge and McQuillan and Hayes were released unconditionally.

Bank Spent $100,000 to Recover Stolen Securities.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 6.—W. E. Barkley, a director of the Lincoln National Bank & Trust Co., today said it had spent approximately $100,000 to recover nearly $3,000,000 worth of bonds taken from the institution during the robbery Sept. 17, 1930.

This money, he said, was paid chiefly to Emory Smith, a director of the Illinois Bankers' Association. Sgt. Roy Steffens of the Chicago "Secret Six" today told the Lincoln Star he had been offered a reward of $2000 by the bank for his part in obtaining the stolen bonds, but that it was up to his employers whether he would accept the money. Barkley was the largest stockholder of the bank.

FOUR ESCAPE IN PLANE CRASH

By the Associated Press. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 6.—Four aviators from Langley Field, Virginia, escaped serious injury today as their twin-motored, army bombing plane crashed at the Municipal Airport here shortly after taking off for the all-American air meet at Miami.

Lieut. John Biggerstaff, pilot of the bomber, suffered a slight cut on the leg and Sgt. Knopke was badly shaken up. The other two occupants of the plane, Lieut. Dunlap and Private Zetwo, were not hurt. The bomber was demolished. It was circling the field after the takeoff when one of the motors stopped. It crashed into a clump of underbrush and turned over. The craft was one of 10 bombers in the twelfth bombardment squadron, which arrived here today to refuel on the way to Miami.

Killed Returning From Funeral.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Ben Kroil of Meta died in a hospital here last night of injuries suffered yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by a Rock Island freight train near Meta. The woman's husband and Charles Horv, an's husband and Charles Horv, who was driving the car, were injured. The Kroils were returning from the funeral of a niece.

ON 'RECAPTURE CLAUSE'

Rayburn of House Committee Seeks Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Chairman Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee today introduced legislation to repeal the recapture provisions of the Interstate Commerce act and provide new bases for rate making.

Rayburn announced hearings on his bill to give the commission jurisdiction over holding company acquisitions of railroads would begin Jan. 12. Explaining his two bills, he said both provided for straight-out repeal of the recapture clause which has been recommended by the Interstate Commerce Commission. One would require a rate base to be fixed by the commission chiefly on the property value of the railroad while the other would leave the commission a more "reasonable latitude" in adjusting rates.

ST. LOUIS WHIST CLUB HOLDS FIRST SESSION

92 Contract Bridge Players at Tables — Cavendish Club Extends Privileges.

Ninety-two contract bridge players were at the tables for the opening last night of the Whist Club of St. Louis, a new organization organized along the lines of the Cavendish Club in New York. Headquarters are in the Park Plaza Hotel.

At the opening session a telegram from the Cavendish Club president, Gratz M. Scott, former St. Louisan, told members of the St. Louis club that the courtesies and privileges of the Cavendish organization were open to them.

The new club, whose membership fee is $15 annually, will be open daily from 12:30 p. m. to midnight. Members who drop in for a rubber in afternoon or evening will be able to sit at tables where partners are needed. The card fee for each session will be $1.

C. Drummond Jones is president of the club, Mrs. Rufus Lackland Taylor is vice president, and Mrs. Alfred H. Murphy is secretary-treasurer. Membership is only by invitation of an executive committee.

Mrs. Taylor, winner of the Vanderbilt trophy for contract play, and Mrs. Murphy, will give lessons to members in bridge and also in mah jong and backgammon for those who are not devoted entirely to cards.

According to Mrs. Taylor, the club has a membership of 200. Among those present last night were:

Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus, Mrs. Louis J. Hayward, Mrs. Samuel W. Fordyce, Maj. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert, Paul Bakewell Jr., Mrs. Edward Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Kaler, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Priest, Samuel Chubb, Miss Eleanor Knapp, Miss May Foster, Travis Fleischel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, Mr. and Mrs. Ben S. Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Overall, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Burkham, John Little.

Several other clubs in the city are devoted to the teaching and playing of bridge. One of the largest of these is the Whitehead Club at the Congress Hotel, headed by Mrs. Fred Uiman.

FIGHT OVER $72,000 ESTATE OF WAGON MANUFACTURER

George Weber, Nephew, Files Suit to Set Aside Will of Philip C. Weber.

Suit to set aside the will of Philip C. Weber, wagon manufacturer, who died Dec. 12, 1930, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by George E. Weber, a nephew. The will disposed of an estate inventoried at $72,244, with Charles C. Weber, brother of the testator, and other members of his family named as principal beneficiaries.

The will contained a paragraph explaining that no bequest was made to George Weber for the reason his uncle had given him $12,000 of the capital stock of the Weber & Damme Wagon Co. The nephew, however, in his suit alleges the will failed to express his uncle's real wish, and it is averred he was in such mental and physical condition as to be incapable of executing a legal will; further, he was unduly influenced. Mr. Weber, who was 72 years old, lives at 2925 University street. He was never married.

UNIVERSITY CITY TO USE STICKER AUTO LICENSES

City automobile license tags for 1932 in University City will be of the sticker type, to be attached to windshields, instead of the usual metal plates, the Board of Aldermen decided in a resolution today.

Advantages set forth for the new style tags are simplification in checking on licenses for each car as the stickers cannot be switched from one car to another, consequent increase in revenue, easy visibility and attractiveness, as the Aldermen plan a design which will properly advertise the town.

The cost, it is said, will be about the same as for metal plates.

Amendments.

Circulation of initiative petitions to revise the procedure for amending the zoning law will be started by the General Council on Civic Needs at its quarterly meeting at the Melbourne Hotel Monday night.

The revision, along lines advocated by the council for some time, is designed to overcome the practice of promiscuous amendment of the zone regulations by the Board of Aldermen. Most of the numerous amendments of the law which have been passed by the Aldermen have been to permit erection of apartments in single-family districts or stores and filling stations in residential zones, in spite of frequent objections by neighboring property owners.

Under the proposed revision, a more effective form of notice will be given property owners concerned and official weight will be given their formal protests.

At least 35,000 signatures of registered voters are to be sought for the petitions. The Charter requires a minimum of 17,408 valid signatures for submission of the measure to the Board of Aldermen. If the Aldermen do not pass it, the Election Board will submit it at the next regular election, or, if there are at least 24,371 valid signatures, that board will submit it at a special election.

Petitions will be circulated through 133 civic, commercial and improvement organizations represented in the General Council on Civic Needs. A campaign organization, including a man and a woman leader in each ward and workers for each precinct, has been formed. Its personnel will be announced upon completing the petitions.

The revision ordinance was drafted by the council's Zoning Committee, of which W. Scott Hancock, a lawyer, is chairman, along the lines of the national uniform zoning act. Luther Ely Smith, chairman of the council, declared the measure would not prevent zoning amendments which are necessary and justified by the city's development, but would give affected property owners opportunity to act before adoption of any amendment.

Provision for public hearing by the Board of Aldermen on any zoning amendment is retained in the proposed ordinance, but it is provided that at least 60 days before a hearing a copy of the amendment involved shall be sent by the board to the City Planning Commission, sitting officially as the Zoning Commission, for recommendation and report. The commission then would give notice of the hearing by registered mail to all property owners in the area affected and within 185 feet adjacent to the area. Within 30 days after being informed of the amendment, the commission would report to the Aldermen whether it ought to be adopted.

At least 15 days' notice of the hearing also would be published in the City Journal or a newspaper. In case of a formal protest by the owners of at least 10 per cent of the property involved or of at least 10 per cent of the ownership in the adjacent 185-foot strip, the Board of Aldermen could adopt the amendment only by a three-fourths vote. Protests could be filed with either the board or the commission.

RAWS AMENDMENT FOR THE DEMOCRATS

Doesn't Expect National Committee to Take Stand
Saturday but Thinks Convention Should Espouse
His State Dispensary Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A warning that disintegration threatens the Democratic party unless it unites and dries can find some comfort in a united approach to the prohibition problem, was issued last night by John J. Raskob.

Making his annual report as chairman of the party's National Committee, he urged resubmission of the liquor question to the voters, opposed a campaign plan to take an outright stand on either side of the dispute and recommended a home rule plan to the consideration of next June's convention.

Raskob's Amendment.

It would take the form, he said, of a constitutional amendment substantially as follows:

"Nothing in the Constitution of the United States shall prevent any State from taking over complete control of the manufacture, transportation, importation and sale of intoxicating beverages within its own territory and exportation thereof to such other states, countries and territories as do not prohibit same, provided, however, that the plan is approved by the people of the State in a State-wide referendum."

"The amendment," he said, "may provide that a State at a later date may rescind its previous action, thus again submitting itself to the provisions of the eighteenth amendment."

Results of His Referendum.

In addition, he said, his poll of contributors to the 1928 campaign showed 93 per cent of the replies to his questionnaire favored returning prohibition to a decision of the people, 80 per cent endorsed a popular vote on home rule plan, and 73 per cent wanted a referendum on repeal.

An appended statement in the poll said that 77,500 questionnaires were sent out last year, and 5,500 replies received.

Raskob told reporters he would ask the committee Saturday for a vote on prohibition.

"Of course," he said, "my report to the committee recommending a state liquor commission will be used as the starting point. Undoubtedly there will be discussion but I hope the resolution to be offered will be to refer the whole question to a national convention."

"I do believe that the National Committee has supreme power between conventions, but it would be foolish to have a committee do a thing that the nation can do."

"My whole purpose in this prohibition question was to get it in the open for public discussion before the convention. There is no question that it is an issue in the national election."

Tabulation of the Votes.

He tabulated the results of all as follows, the first column representing the number of votes, the second the percentage of the total, and the third the number of states.

	Pct.	Pct.
Arkansas . . . . .	87	78
Louisiana . . . . .	92	89

"Any poll or straw vote is a party limited in its scope and not conclusively prove much," he said.
"The result of this poll, however, shows conclusively the opinion of those Democrats who are in the campaign in which the party has 3,016,443 votes, as against 1,000,000 high of 9,147,353 votes, 64 per cent."
Raskob's report will be before the National Committee on Jan. 10, Columbia.

DRAWN AMENDMENT FOR THE DEMOCRATS

Doesn't Expect National Committee to Take Stand
Saturday but Thinks Convention Should Espouse
His State Dispensary Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A warning that disintegration threatens the Democratic party unless its members and dyes can find some common, united approach to the prohibition problem, was issued last night by John J. Raskob.

Making his annual report as chairman of the party's National Committee, he urged resubmission of the liquor question to the people by opposing a campaign plank taking an outright stand on either side of the dispute and recommended a home rule plan to the consideration of next June's convention.

Raskob's Amendment.
It would take the form, he said,
of a constitutional amendment substantially as follows:

"Nothing in the Constitution of the United States shall prevent any State from taking over complete control of the manufacture, transportation, importation and sale of intoxicating beverages within its own territory and exportation thereof to such other States, countries and territories as do not prohibit same, provided, however, that the plan under which the State control is first approved by the people of that State in a State-wide referendum."

"The amendment," he said, "might provide that a State at any time may rescind its previous action, thus again submitting itself to the provisions of the eighteenth amendment."

Results of His Referendum.
In addition, he said, his poll of contributors to the 1928 campaign showed 93 per cent of those replying to his questionnaire favored returning prohibition to the decision of the people, 80 per cent favored a popular vote on the same rule plan, and 79 per cent favored a referendum on repeal.

An appended statement on the polls of the poll said that 77,500 questionnaires were sent out and 25,500 replies received.

Raskob told reporters he would not ask the committee Saturday to take a vote on prohibition.

"Of course," he said, "my preferred report to the committee recommending a state liquor control plan will be used as the unfinished business. Undoubtedly there will be discussion but I hope the only resolution to be offered will be one to refer the whole question to the national convention."

"I do believe that the National Committee has supreme power between conventions, but I think it would be foolish to have the committee do a thing that the convention can do."

"My whole purpose in bringing the prohibition question along with other vital issues was to get it into the open for public discussion before the convention meets.
There is no question that it is going to be an issue in the national convention."

Tabulation of the Votes.
He tabulated the results of his poll as follows, the first column of figures indicating the vote for prohibition, the second for change, the third for repeal.
People for a decision, and the third column for future amendments to the constitution ratified by the people instead of by legislatures of the states.

Florida	94	91	99

Any poll or straw vote is necessarily limited in its scope and cannot conclusively prove much," Raskob said.

The result of this poll, however,
showed conclusively the opinion of those Democrats who contributed about $1,000,000 to conduct a campaign in which the party polled about 413 votes, as against its previous high of 2,147,253 votes, a gain of 16 per cent.

Raskob's report will be laid before the National Committee. The

TOKIO "SURPRISED" AT U. S.
DELAY IN TAKING APOLOGY

Japan Willing to Order Further Action in Attack on American Consul at Mukden, Manchuria.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Jan. 6.—Today's newspapers comment extensively on reports from Washington that Secretary of State Stimson has conferred with the French and British Ambassadors, presumably with reference to the Manchurian controversy. Several of them speculate on the possibility of a joint note by the three Powers calling Japan's attention to the Nine-Power Pact.

There is surprise in official circles at reports from the American capital that Stimson was not entirely satisfied with Japan's expression of regret for the attack on Consul Culver B. Chamberlain at Mukden.

It is said the Japanese Government is willing to take any further action which any self-respecting Government would take under the circumstances, but it is not clear here whether Washington wants a written apology.

It is emphasized that Chamberlain was not recognized as the American consul when he was beaten, and that no Japanese soldier would willingly offend an American official.

A Rengo News Agency dispatch from Mori, Japan, quotes Gen. Minami, who is returning from a tour of inspection in Manchuria, as favoring an independent Government
there.

Official circles take the view that the General, who is a member of Japan's Supreme War Council, may have been misquoted. "That's a rather bold assertion, even coming from a soldier," a civilian official said.

"The Manchurian situation should now be stabilized," the dispatch quotes Gen. Minami as saying. "Under the three important principles: The open door, equality of opportunity and autonomy."

"Japan need not worry about what kind of Government will be born in Manchuria, but neither Japan,
the Chinese Government nor any third party should be allowed to interfere with the administrative policies of such a Government.
As far as stabilization of the Government goes, neither Japan nor

GALE SWEEPS BRITISH ISLES;
HIGH SEAS ON CHANNEL COAST

Heavy Storm Reported Approaching From the West; Large Areas Flooded in Wales.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 6.—The British Isles were swept by a gale, with much rain and high temperatures today, while great seas dashed the coasts, especially on the west and along the channel, interfering with shipping.

No casualties were reported. Two small boats were sunk at the mouth of the Thames.

A violent storm was reported approaching Great Britain from the Atlantic and winds of hurricane force were expected. Serious floods continued inland, a large area in North Wales was flooded.

By the Associated Press.
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 6.— Homes here have been submerged and at least one person is reported drowned in floods in Czechoslovakia.

Rising rivers submerged 150 houses at Landskron, where the fire brigade rescued the inhabitants in canoes. Cattle, standing knee deep in water, could not be rescued because of the ice around them.

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF MEASURE TO GO TO HOUSE TOMORROW

Committee Chairman Serves Notice
as Group Meets to Hold Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Chairman Collier of the House Ways and Means Committee today served notice on the Republican members that the Democratic tariff bill would be reported to the House for action tomorrow.

He made the announcement as the committee met to hold hearings on the bill. At the same time Representative Crisp (Dem.), Georgia, announced that because of complications that might arise, that section of the proposed legislation authorizing the President to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements would be stricken out by the Democratic majority.

Collier stressed that the Democrats would dispose of the tariff bill as promptly as possible so President Hoover's proposal for the $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation might be brought before the House soon.

GOV. ROOSEVELT SEEKS NEW TAXES FOR NEW YORK

In Address to Legislature Proposes Higher Income and Other Levies to Meet Deficit.

By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Addressing the New York Legislature at the opening of its annual session here today, Gov. Franklin D.
Roosevelt proposed business and industry "be given a new leadership which will help them and at the same time give definite recognition to a new balance based on the right of every individual to make a living out of life."

While the Governor devoted most of his 6000-word address to recommendations for legislation, he also expressed his opinion of the present day social order and outlined his program for stabilizing the nation.

Referring to the depression,
Roosevelt said: "More than two years have gone by and the leaders in Government and business have shown us few plans for the reconstruction of a better ordered civilization in which the economic freedom of the individual will be restored."

Seeking Holiday on Politics.
In his opening address, the Governor asked for a holiday on politics, declaring that "domestic crisis" calls for a "unity of leadership and action as complete as if we were engaged in war."

"Not since the dark days of the '60s have people of this State and nation faced problems as grave, situations as difficult, confusing as severe. The economics of America, and indeed of the whole world are out of joint; only the most skillful and concerted care will mend them."

"We face the necessity of employing new measures of value for the good reason that many old values have disappeared; comparisons of property and man's remuneration for his work, for the good reason that many of the old
proportions have been proved false."

"We have lost in recent years the economic liberty of the individual
—this has been swallowed up in specialization of industry, agriculture and distribution and has meant that the cog can move only if the whole machine is in perfect gear."

"We see on one hand an over-
production of food and clothing,
and close by, millions of men and women who lack the medium of exchange — money — to ward off
starvation and nakedness."

"We know now from bitter experience that the theory that a nation could lift itself up by its own bootstraps was not sound; that an increasing concentration of wealth
and of the power that wealth controls did not guarantee an intelligent nor a fair use of that wealth
or power."

"But the American system of economics and Government is everlasting. We should not seek in any way to destroy or tear down—except to replace by sound material with new. Let us restore and at the same time remodel."

Proposes Tax Increases.
To meet the current state deficit
and the expected loss of revenue
which will approximate $150,000,- 000 this year, the Governor asked for an increase in taxes on heavy motor trucks and buses; on personal incomes; gasoline and stock
sales.

He estimated the number of unemployed in New York at 2,000,- 000.

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 6.—A strong

Four Women and Child Among Victims of Strike Celebration Clash at Arnedo.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, Jan. 6.—Dispatches from Logrono today said that four striking wounded in a fight with civil guards yesterday at Arnedo had died in a Logrono hospital, bringing the total of those killed to 10. Another of the wounded is in a serious condition. Arnedo

the civil guard, and communica-

Four women and a child were among those killed in the fight between shoe factory strikers and civil guards.

The news stirred afresh the political situation in Madrid, arising out of the killing of four civil guards at Castiblanco in rioting Thursday.

Details from Logrono indicated that the Arnedo today said that four

the good reason that many old
values have disappeared; comparisons of property and man's remuneration for his work, for the
good reason that many of the old
proportions have been proved false."

"We have lost in recent years the
economic liberty of the individual
—this has been swallowed up in
specialization of industry, agriculture and distribution and has meant
that the cog can move only if the whole machine is in perfect gear."

"We see on one hand an over-
production of food and clothing,
and close by, millions of men and
women who lack the medium of
exchange — money — to ward off
starvation and nakedness."

"We know now from bitter experience that the theory that a nation could lift itself up by its own
bootstraps was not sound; that an increasing concentration of wealth
and of the power that wealth controls did not guarantee an intelligent nor a fair use of that wealth
or power."

"But the American system of
economics and Government is everlasting. We should not seek in any way to destroy or tear down—except to replace by sound material
with new. Let us restore and at the same time remodel."

Proposes Tax Increases.
To meet the current state deficit
and the expected loss of revenue
which will approximate $150,000,- 000 this year, the Governor asked
for an increase in taxes on heavy
motor trucks and buses; on personal incomes; gasoline and stock
sales.

He estimated the number of unemployed in New York at 2,000,- 000.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS PROMISE TO HELP BALANCE BUDGET

Declare Government Credit Can Be Maintained Only by Drastic Measures.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Democratic Congressional Policy Committee today announced it would endeavor to help the administration balance the budget by a revenue-raising bill to be formulated by the House Ways and Means Committee.

In a statement following a meeting in the office of Speaker Garner, the committee said:

"It is of primary importance that the budget be balanced promptly. The problem is in large measure the outgrowth of mistakes in policy and extravagance on the part of the Republican administration. Nevertheless, Democrats in Congress acknowledge the duty to contribute their best efforts to maintain the credit of the United States Government, which can be accomplished only by drastic measures."

Four Killed in Juarez Fire.
By the Associated Press.
EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 6.—Four persons were burned to death in an apartment house fire today in Juarez, Mexico. The bodies were found after firemen extinguished
the blaze, probably started by explosion of a stove. The dead: Maximino Aguirre, 35 years old; Mrs.
Maria Hernandez, 30; her son,
Jose, 11, and an unidentified man about 35.

Socialists and republicans of the Center Right have criticised the Government since the Castiblanco affair, causing Premier Manuel Azana to accuse them in Congress of "using the Castiblanco dead for political ends."

LOCUST PLAGUE IN AFRICA

Soldiers and Airplanes Called Out to Fight Insects.

By the Associated Press.
DAR-ES-SALAAM, East Africa,
Jan. 6.—A detachment of the King's African Rifles, a fleet of airplanes and 1000 natives were called out today to assist in Tanganyika's campaign against a plague of locusts which has been destroying crops.

The Director of Agriculture said
the locusts are moving in a southeasterly direction, denuding the countryside and threatening Nyassaland

AT START OF NEW FIGHT

Virtually All of Nationalist Congress Leaders, Includ-

—More Than 80 Organizations Outlawed.

By the Associated Press.
BOMBAY, Jan. 6.—The first phase of the Government's drive against organizations of the Nationalist Congress was completed this morning with the arrest of virtually all the prominent leaders of the Congress. They were taken in by scores and several women were included among those arrested.

The women opened the campaign
as the rank and file of Mahatma Gandhi's millions renewed the fight for independence. The women established pickets in front of shops throughout the country, defying arrest and urging prospective customers not to buy British-made goods.

The arrest of the leaders was followed by an announcement in the Bombay Government Gazette that the Congress itself and more than 80 allied organizations throughout the city and suburbs are declared unlawful associations.

The thoroughness with which the organizations were put down was shown by the fact that even the Prabhat Forties, a small association whose members assembled each day at dawn to sing national songs in the streets, has also been barred. All buildings which formerly housed these associations are now occupied by the police and the city is quiet.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Back to the Land.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It is estimated that there are 55,000 cotton, corn and wheat farmers in St. Louis, lured here by higher wages, who are stranded and a charge upon public charities. St. Louis has raised nearly $2,000,000 to care for these unfortunate victims of enforced idleness. In what direction must this vast army of unemployed move if not back to the land? The farm alone defies the depression.

The writer's contention is not that there is money in farming, but that the unemployed farmer in the city is infinitely better off as a self-supporting tiller of the soil. As agriculture is the only one of our institutions that continues to challenge and defy the depression, the following relief plan is respectfully submitted for the consideration of our splendid philanthropic organizations who are serving the needy of St. Louis:

Let the relief organizations return all farm laborers, applying for aid, to their former jobs, their kindred and friends, advancing their transportation.

Urgent tenant farmers with families heading hell to rent farms; stake them to a standardized unit until they can make a crop, taking their notes for advances made.

Encourage experienced farmers, with enough money to make a small cash payment, to buy farms and re-establish themselves thereon. Instead of money gifts, buy food and clothing at wholesale and ration out to those unfit for the farm, on a standardized plan. There is no better way to dispose of 50,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat by the Federal Farm Board.

The country belongs. Shall it be treck or dole? LOUIS J. BROOKS.

Give Credit to McFadden.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WHEN the administration officially ostracized Congressman McFadden because of his criticism of President Hoover, it employs the customary political system of tyranny used to punish official courage and independence.

If people are supposed to respect the President because of his official position, by the same token they have a right to demand a President big enough to accept criticism without resorting to a method of boycotting that is repulsive to all proper ideas of a democracy.

Whether right or wrong in his charges, the Congressman has earned the thanks of the people by unwittingly disclosing a practice of which both the Elephant and the Ass have long been guilty.

This Government is only a few jumps away from absolutism now and it needs friends as it never did before. In recent years, has it done any material thing to cause its subjects, who contribute in taxes to its support, to love it more? In its enforcement of laws which in themselves are oppressive and obnoxious, it has cooled the patriotism of millions of people. It is not uncommon to hear men express dislike and even hatred of the Government, and say they consider it no sin to "beat" it in any way possible.

McFadden may lose his official influence, but he has been the means of giving the country an object lesson in political immorality that is doing great harm. Something is due him, and he may get his reward. W. E. BLACKLIDGE.

For a Cycling Trick.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
OUR recent editorial on cycling was read with a great deal of interest. It is very unfortunate that the independent automobile driver on our fine modern highways has so little regard for the cyclist who still loves this fine and health-giving sport and, at times, even though the wheelman is riding within one foot of the edge of the pavement, tries to see how close he can come to missing him. If that same automobile driver were passing another car, he would do so by a margin of three or four feet but, in the case of a cyclist, he assumes the attitude of a bull.

Regardless of these highway hazards, we still have a number of cyclists in St. Louis who commenced riding in the '80s, using in that period what was known as the "ordinary" and, with the passing of that style of wheel, to the bicycle of today. Many of these men are in their sixties today and are still devotees of the cycle, and you will find no harder men, or men with better health. Cycling to these men is a means toward a full enjoyment of life.

If our good city can give park facilities to the golf, tennis and baseball enthusiasts, why cannot it assign some part of our Grand Forest Park for a cycling race track, on which the younger boys may test their skill and at the same time keep them from endangering their lives riding on our crowded thoroughfares? There is a depression just east of the old Forest Park police station which would make an ideal spot for a cycle track and cost very little to build and maintain.

W. J. RODGERS.

WHERE ARE THE DEMOCRATS?

When the Democratic party captured the lower house of Congress, it was taken for granted that the fight on the Hawley-Smoot tariff would open as soon as the new Congress convened. Opposition to high tariffs was the most powerful of the Democratic party traditions. The disaffection of some of the Senate Republicans was notorious.

The news from Washington is therefore as incredible as it very well could be. It is universally conceded that tariffs are a major factor in the plight of the world. It is also widely recognized that when the United States adopted the Hawley-Smoot tariff it invited reprisals which have resulted in excessive tariffs everywhere. Yet the plans of the Democrats at Washington, so far as they relate to the tariff, are almost indistinguishable from Republican policies. It was accepted as a matter of course that the two great primary objectives of the Democrats in the present session of Congress would be to increase income taxes and lower tariffs. It is a profound surprise and disappointment to this expectation to learn that about the best the Democrats can think of by way of tariff reform is to make the Tariff Commission responsible to Congress, instead of to the President.

The tariff bill that has come from the Ways and Means Committee of the House does not touch the rate structure in the Hawley-Smoot law. It contents itself with taking from the President power to change duties upon recommendation by the Tariff Commission and transferring that power to Congress. It is explained that in the judgment of the Democratic leaders there would be no chance for tariff revision to get through Congress. The makeshift agreed upon is therefore declared to be only a declaration of party policy. What a lousy battle cry that is for a party which won two presidential elections with Grover Cleveland on the issue of tariff reform! Are the Democrats an opposition party, as they always were before they began to make sheep's eyes at the tariff barons in 1928, or are they a mere minority appendage to the Republican party?

The Democratic leaders at Washington do not know whether they can get a revision of the Hawley-Smoot tariff through the present Congress or not. It is the part of cowardice for them to assume that they could not do so. The Hawley-Smoot bill was put through the Senate by practices without precedent in that body. Men who went to Washington without the slightest expectation of voting for the excessive rate structure which has brought disaster upon us and the rest of the world, and which has all but destroyed the great foreign trade built up over a term of years by our industries, were beguiled by Grundyism into bartering their faith for favors to industries in their own states.

It is not easy to believe that, in view of all that has happened, these men will stand by their former action if put to the test. It is the function of an opposition party to put them to the test. Not one of them has had put upon him since that memorable battle any such stamp of popular approval as that enjoyed by the venerable Senator Norris of Nebraska. The sugar beet industry is of great importance to Nebraska, but Senator Norris was too honest to vote for the exorbitant sugar tariff because it would benefit the sugar industry in his own State. His reward was to be returned to the Senate by a majority of some 65,000 votes, a verdict in which the sugar beet growers of Nebraska probably joined.

The National Economic League has just polled its 5000 members and its national council of 1600 on the subject of the tariff. These men are largely economists and financial experts. Seventy-five per cent of the 5000 members and 92 per cent of the 1600 men on the council have voted in favor of reducing our tariff schedules as promptly as possible. Is that what the Democrats, to whom the country looks for tariff reform, propose to do? Or have they, as appears from the news, abandoned their former faith and gone over to the enemy?

FOR A DRIVERS' LICENSE ORDINANCE.

Alarmed by the toll of automobile deaths during 1931, 104 against 170 for St. Louis, Kansas City's Council has passed a drivers' license law. Most drivers' license enactments in the United States are state laws, and the next Missouri Legislature should pass one. In the meantime, let the Board of Aldermen follow Kansas City's example in passing an ordinance on the subject. Since the city has power to license automobiles, presumably it also has the power to specify under what conditions such licenses shall be issued. Incidentally, a driver's license ordinance would operate to uncover those who are now dodging the city tax.

THE TAX DISPUTE.

It is regrettable that the House Democrats, after many expressions of disapproval from their ranks of the administration's tax plans, should now be preparing to fall in with most of the sales tax proposals. That, at least, is the purport of the statement by Representative Rainey, majority leader, that the party's program "undoubtedly will contain some sales taxes." He mentions specifically proposals for Federal levies on gasoline, automobiles and radios, for stamp taxes and increased cigarette taxes. It has repeatedly been pointed out how adverse to business recovery levies on commodities would be at a time when selling already meets plenty of obstacles. So widespread was the protest against administration suggestions a few months ago for a general sales tax that the plan was dropped. Mr. Mellon's proposals for taxes on specified articles were received almost as unfavorably in public discussion and among insurgent Republicans and many Democrats in Congress. It is somewhat surprising that nothing is said in this field of the law of diminishing returns, which has become such a bugaboo to both parties in the matter of income taxes.

The states already levy relatively high taxes on gasoline. Automobiles, through this tax and various license fees, now bear a heavy burden. It is debatable whether this, the biggest industry in the country, with so many important ramifications, should be taxed more than it is. The Government at present actually gets more return from a package of cigarettes than the manufacturer does, and several states impose a similar tax. The new levies proposed had more justification in war days, when it was desirable to check consumption and center all efforts on war activities. Now, however, all consumption needs encouragement, not the deterrent of tax measures.

Mr. Rainey also indicated the party would favor a maximum income surtax of 40 per cent, exactly the figure proposed by Mr. Mellon; and 20 per cent below the war-time level. The parties thus apparently are officially agreed in their gentle handling of the large-income group, and, to some extent, in their desire to make the consumer pay. The country had hoped for better things from the new House majority, and it is to be hoped that voices will be raised within the party so expectations may be realized.

WHAT'S WRONG IN THE OZARKS?

Something is wrong in the Ozarks. The neighborhood of Springfield is a strange place for the butchery of Saturday afternoon, when six officers were killed and three wounded in the siege of the Young brothers' farm home. The hill country is a planet removed from Chicago's gangsterism, yet the Springfield butchery rates a close second in murderous violence to the St. Valentine's day massacre.

The Young brothers, too, were natives of the hills, brought up, as the grim, old Spartan mother has explained, "not to drink, nor to smoke, and to be good Baptists." But they were professional criminals, killing when occasion required, stealing automobiles, living in outlawry, and finishing finally by suicide at Houston, Tex.

This is not the hill country's first appearance in the criminal news. Jake Fleagle, notorious bank robber, was arrested in Branson two years ago, after a long chase. Instead of submitting to arrest, he shot it out, and died a day or two later. It developed that Fleagle had been living near Hollister for more than a year. Only a few days before six officers of the law were killed in Greene County, the Sheriff of Howell County also was killed by an outlaw.

How many Fleagles, first and last, retire to the Ozarks when police pursuit is too hot may only be conjectured. The country is admittedly an inviting retreat for desperadoes wanted by the law. That is what is wrong down there. It offers attractive opportunity for the basic industry of the professional criminal class, namely, the illicit liquor traffic. Moonshine has come to be an important business, a far too powerful business of the Ozarks. The people know it, too, and thoughtful citizens are genuinely disturbed about it. Still, rural sentiment, resolutely shutting its eyes to facts, is strong for prohibition, and no man can go into the Legislature from this politically dry belt except he stand unyieldingly for the eighteenth amendment. This despite terrorism in many parts of the hills, a monster that has arisen in the wake of the dry laws.

It is too bad. It seems impossible, though, that this intolerable condition can go on indefinitely. Sooner or later, the people of the Ozarks will rid themselves of the law-imposed lawlessness that now casts its vicious shadow over their lovely land.

NO TIME FOR USELESS WAR MEMORIALS.

There will be general protest for the protest which is being raised in Massachusetts against the expenditure of $1,000,000 on a stone memorial to the State's war dead. Objections have, in many cases, come from prominent citizens who could not under any circumstances rightfully be accused of lack of patriotism. Rather, it is a higher patriotism which moves them to public utterance on the subject. The erection of large and costly monuments without utility, if advisable at all, can well be left to prosperous times. To spend so much money now in that manner would be worse than inexcusable. If a portion of the people of Massachusetts want to see a memorial to the war, let them look about them at the condition of the world. If that will not suffice, let them spend their money on a hospital to improve care of disabled veterans, or set up a fund to rehabilitate the neglected families of the jobless men whose service now seems destined to be forgotten.

WHEAT AND COTTON FOR THE NEEDY.

The Senate has authorized the Farm Board to release 40,000,000 bushels of wheat for relief work, and John Barton Payne, national chairman of the Red Cross, says he will undertake its distribution. Last October, the Farm Board offered to sell wheat and cotton for cash or on deferred payments, declaring it could not give away its holdings without specific authorization by Congress. The offer was placed before the President's Organization on Unemployment Relief, but no action was taken.

If the House concurs in the Senate's action, an appropriation will be necessary to process the wheat, but this can be repaid, thinks Mr. Payne, by sale of the by-products. The Farm Board's original idea was that wheat could be bartered for flour or bread, and cotton for cloth or clothing, remarking: "In handling it that way, we do not see how it would upset any channels of trade." It has been estimated that 8,000,000 bushels of wheat will meet present relief requirements.

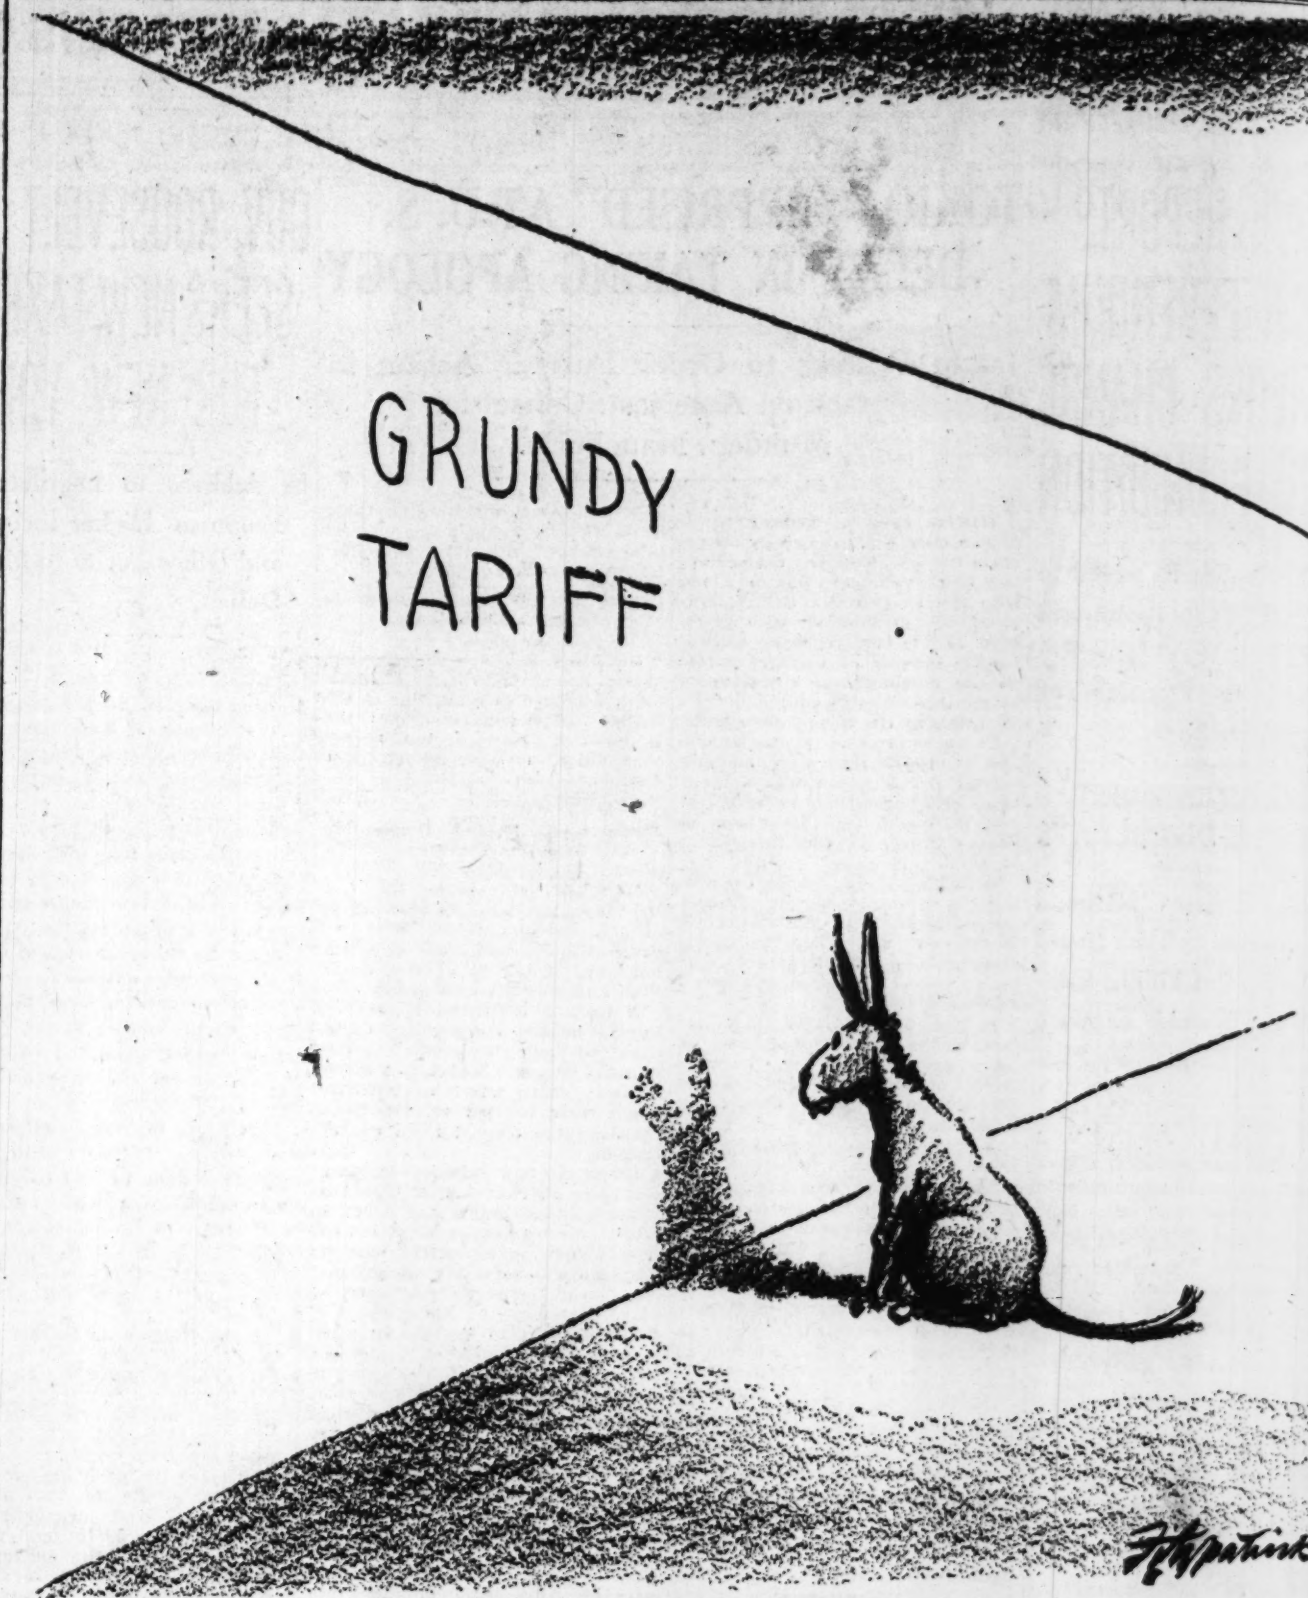

There are, of course, difficulties in the way of transferring wheat and cotton from the bursting granaries and warehouses of the Farm Board to the homes of the unemployed in the shape of food and clothing, but none that cannot be overcome. Local relief organizations are paying out money for food and clothing which could be saved, in part, for other purposes if it were done. Moreover, the decrease in Farm Board stocks, now hanging as a threat over the market, would have a salutary effect on the whole situation.

Between the Youngers and the various Youngs, Missouri, seems to be about as changeable as human nature.

SUGGESTING A TESTIMONIAL.

Guy A. Thompson, whose recent election to the presidency of the American Bar Association we applauded, is making the very kind of leader the field of the law so sorely needs. He has been in office only four months, but in that time he has devoted himself to the outstanding need of bench and bar in such a way as already to have made his administration memorable. The campaign he inaugurated some 10 years ago to reform criminal justice in Missouri he is extending to his wider audience. Speaking the other day before the Nebraska Bar Association, he warned lawyers that, unless they apply themselves to the reorganization of the judicial system in behalf of "speedy justice instead of legal delay," a disgraced public will perform that much-needed task. As Mr. Thompson so well says, "Delay of justice is tantamount to denial of justice or the sale of justice to the highest bidder." The local bar association dinner in honor of Mr. Thompson Jan. 16 would be an admirable time for its St. Louis supporters to take up this cause with renewed determination. No testimonial would be more appreciated by the man who is to be honored.

The electrocution of Current River would be the crime of the century.

What Industries Benefit By the Tariff?

Only the inefficient, incompetent and dishonest ones, is writer's answer to this question; those which cannot meet foreign competition, despite advantages here, require tariff favoritism to exist; duties enable others to sell goods cheaper abroad than at home; tariff is in reality a dole, borne by consumer, for chosen industries.

Herbert C. Pell, Ex-Congressman from New York, in the North American Review.

THE statements—they are not arguments—generally put forth in favor of protection in this country are: first, that high duties are necessary to preserve American wages and standards of living, and second, that the United States has had a protective system for a long time and is, on the whole, the most prosperous of nations. Each of these is based on premises which the slightest consideration will show to be utterly false.

Inefficient, incompetent or dishonest industries are the only ones that can profit by a tariff. A protective tariff is a dam which blocks the normal economic channel and alters the flow of business in order to enrich certain favored fields. Naturally the ordinary person will buy at the best market; that is to say, the place where he can get the most for his money, considering his own interests and tastes. If for any reason his access to a good market is impeded, he may be forced to go to a bad one.

No manufacturer would dream of asking for protection against an inferior article sold at a higher price than his own. No man asks for a handicap from an opponent that he can beat from scratch and, if an industry does not fear free competition, it requires no protection.

Does anyone suppose, for example, that a tariff of $1000 a piece would materially lessen the number of typewriters brought into the United States? An American manufacturer of typewriters may fear the competition of his American rivals, but the free admission of European machines would be no possible danger, for the very good reason that American typewriters are the best and the cheapest in the world.

The only manufacturer who is anxious to erect barriers to prevent the American purchaser from reaching a foreign market is the man who realizes that it is to the interest of the ordinary American purchaser to buy abroad and that, in spite of the automatic protection given by 3000 miles of ocean, he is unable to meet his foreign competitor, either in quality or in price. If the American product is worse in quality or higher in price than its foreign competitor, its producer must either go to the wall or induce the Government to impede the American purchaser from acting freely in his own interests and to assist him in foisting on his countrymen an inferior or more costly article.

Since the beginning of the century, except during the war and its immediate aftermath, American steel rails have been delivered at Liverpool more cheaply than they were sold at the mill door in Pittsburgh. I have seen American aluminum sold in London for a lower price than was charged for it in New York.

These industries, which are amply able to face world competition, want a tariff so as to preserve their monopoly in America. It is absurd to suggest that the management of the Steel Corporation or of the Aluminum Co. of America have been for almost a generation selling abroad at a loss in order to provide employment for those laborers whom they love so well. Neither is an eleemosynary institution. They are corporations organized for profit, and their actions very properly are inspired by the desire to make the greatest possible gain. There is no reason that they should have any other purpose, but there is no reason either that they should be the favored children of the American Government, permitted year after year to charge a higher price to their countrymen than they get from their foreign customers.

The advocates of a tariff often point out certain industries which they say could not exist without protection and which today employ a considerable number of people. This argument is the same as could be used to advocate the establishment of a pineapple industry in Norway.

At the present moment, Norway finds itself at the mercy of foreign pineapple growers. Prickly fruit produced under the unkind sunlight of Florida or of Hawaii throttles the efforts of those patriotic Norwegians who are anxious to free their country from this humiliating foreign domination. It is hoped that their cries will soon be heard and that the Norwegian Parliament will protect their patriotic efforts by the imposition of a duty of at least $5 per pineapple. The result will inevitably be a new industry.

An inefficient or unsuitable business is not a proper subject of public charity. If it cannot support itself and cannot deliver its product as cheaply as can others, it should be abandoned. If natural conditions unfit this or any other country for the production of a particular article, then that article should not be produced in the country. If natural conditions or the wage scale prevent the economic development of a particular industrial enterprise, then the intelligent commercial mentality should direct its efforts elsewhere.

There are in the United States many industries which use labor at high wages most successfully and are able to produce their goods better and cheaper than can their rivals in any country in the world. It is these industries which should be supported and encouraged. Our present policy oppresses and discourages them. It ties around their neck the burden of supporting the incompetently managed or the unsuitably located.

In this country we continue to maintain a dole far more costly than that of Great Britain. But it is not, as in England, for the benefit of the poor and unemployed, but for the rich and powerful. It costs the people of the United States, directly and indirectly, 16 times as much as would any conceivable dole. Manufacturers, finding themselves provided with a license to overcharge and realizing that the Government will not expose them to the competition of their more skillful rivals, feel very little inclination to develop their plants to any real degree of efficiency.

American politicians are quite as responsive to the contributions of the American tariff beneficiaries as the English Parliament is to the dole vote. I am inclined to agree with Shakespeare—"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." I see no reason to prefer a subsidy for the rich to a dole for the poor.

Our Intrenched Bureaucracy

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

EFFECTIVE consolidation of Government bureaus, divisions and departments on a scale confirming the Senator Aldrich's assertion that $300,000,000 a year was wasted because of faulty and obsolete organization requires, perhaps, an American dictator. Next to that, the period of a great depression popularizing Government economy offers the most favorable conditions for a thorough reorganization program.

In viewing this subject, which has been agitated again and again for 20 years or more with undeviating futility, the President rightly observes: "Now that economy absolutely must be the first order in Government, it is an appropriate time for Congress to take up the question and bring it to conclusion. Such action would comprise a major accomplishment of the present session of Congress."

The obstacles to this reform in administration have not been found in Congress alone. True, an entrenched bureaucracy by many approaches to members of House and Senate. Consolidation of bureaus or any established services now functioning in two or more departments involves the extinction of jobs or even the uprooting of traditions as old as the Government itself. Threatened jobs join in a common defense. Congressmen rally to the defense of patronage and thus the reform runs up against a stone wall of vested interests.

Yet every President from Taft to Hoover who has proposed the thorough or even the partial consolidation of duplicate services has also encountered opposition in his own Cabinet. If department heads find their particular little empires being partitioned or reduced in the scope of their activities, they usually fight a "defensive war." It is an attempt for economy's sake were made to join all the military services in one executive department, the officials of both the War and Navy departments, from the Cabinet secretaries down, would stage the Verdun with the slogan, "They shall not pass." The officials would have a great pack of Congressmen supporting them, and the recent failure of the President's effort to reduce the number of navy yards reminds one.

While the Army and Navy are doubtless secure in their administrative independence, because of the military traditions and sentiments they can call to their defense, the numerous branches of the public service remain mainly, according to every presidential commission studying the situation, could be given reorganization and consolidation treatment to advantage.

In its general lines, the Federal bureaucracy is still based on the free-wheeling model of 1789, when the United States Government was established under the Constitution. While the stage-coach of 1789 has evolved into the motor bus of 1932, the Federal bureaucracy remains the operation of our great-grandfathers. It is odd that a people wedded to the "machine age" of the twentieth century should see so little that is outmoded in a bureaucracy shaped in the eighteenth century.

WHILE it is manifestly unfair to hold the Republican party responsible for the depression, that party has done incalculable harm through its chief executive by his Pollyannaish attitude or inability to admit the state of affairs throughout.

LENZ AND LIGGETT TRIM CULBERTSON LEAD 2660 MORE

With 13 Rubbers to Go, Challenger Has Point Score of 116,320, 'Official' Team 102,145.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Sidney S. Lenz and his partner, Commander Winfield Liggett Jr., playing the "official" system, took six of eight rubbers from Ely Culbertson and his partner, Michael T. Gottlieb, playing the Culbertson "approach forcing" system.

The rubber score in the 150-rubber match to test the merits of the two rival systems, a contract bridge bidding stands 73 for Culbertson, 64 for Lenz; the point score 116,320 for Culbertson, 102,145 for Lenz. Last night Lenz and Liggett reduced the "official" deficit by 2660.

Thirteen rubbers remain to be played tomorrow and, Friday night, Howard Schenken will be Culbertson's partner tomorrow night. Mrs. Josephine Culbertson is expected to play in the final session Friday night. There will be no play tonight.

Last night, for the first time in the match, Culbertson had a partner who failed to contribute to his plan. Gottlieb, New York's chief broker, whom Culbertson regards as a star, played brilliantly on the defensive but Lenz and Liggett held high cards.

The only little slam of the session was made by Culbertson; Lenz and Liggett each could have made one without trouble but failed to take advantage of their card. Gottlieb made several "psychic" bids that made minor trouble for Culbertson and Culbertson made one himself that kept his opponents out of game. Culbertson afterward said most of the break was with his opponents.

Oswald Jacoby, who withdrew Lenz's partner some time ago, a storm with Lenz over Jacoby's "psychic" bids, was among the kibitzers for the first time. He got out of the match. He said he was looking for a chess game while he was present. Lenz and Liggett made two little slams which they failed to bid.

"Maybe my 'psychics' were bad," Jacoby said, shaking his head. "I see that." Slams on bids of three "I'm sorry, Ely," Gottlieb said at the end of the session. "Sorry," exclaimed Culbertson, "you play a beautiful game, Mike!"

System Reduces Losses Due To a Prolonged Run of Poor Cards, Mrs. Culbertson Says

Husband and New Partner
Avoid Heavy Penalties—
Thinks Lenz Has No
Chance to Win Contest
Despite Gains.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON,
(Copyright, 1932.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Michael T. Gottlieb, my temporary successor as my husband's partner in his 150-rubber match with Sidney S. Lenz to test the comparative merits of the approach-forcing and official systems of contract bidding, was greeted with a reception of light and heavy artillery in the way of commanding hands for the opposing players as he sat in for his first session last night.

The succession of poor hands did not injure his morale nor that of my husband and by adherence to system they were able to avoid taking heavy penalties, a danger always present when the cards are running against you, because the urge under these conditions is to "fight the cards." I was glad to see both Mike and Ely resist the temptation.

Under the influence of those powerful hands, our lead was apparently considerably reduced, but actually the chances of our opponents winning the match were much dimmer at the close of the session than at its beginning. In order to win in the 13 rubbers yet to be played, they must make an average gain of 1090 points a rubber, but it is highly improbable.

Our lead, however, could have been materially reduced were it not for some of the weaknesses in the official system of bidding which were disclosed during the night's play. One example of it was in the hand below:

J109

K42
(LIGGETT)

The bidding:
South West North East
3 spades pass pass pass
4 spades pass 4 spades pass

The opening bid of three spades prevented the free exchange of precise information and thus the bidding of an easily makeable small slam. Had this slam been bid, our lead would have been 710 points less, since it was made, but as it was the two tricks over game had only the value of 50 points each.

A deadly monotony of uninteresting hands, both from the bidding and playing standpoint, was relieved in the last rubber when Ely and Mike, through a series of strong bids, reached a small slam contract on the hand below, when they had at the time a partial score of 35.

(LENZ)

East South West North
1 heart 1 spade 3 clubs pass
3 hearts pass 3 spades pass
4 diam. pass 4 hearts pass
5 clubs pass 5 clubs pass

The bidding may be open to slight criticism as being over-daring, but as all 13 tricks were taken in the play and our side netted the slam bonus, I shall not be too severe in my criticism on it.

In the play, Ely was especially brilliant. The opening lead was a spade, which he won with the ace. Then he led the queen of clubs. Mr. Lenz played the king and Ely won with the ace in dummy, and returning the suit, finessed against the ten, which fortunately was in Commander Liggett's hand.

My husband reasoned correctly, however, that if Mr. Lenz held three trumps he would not have played the king on the first round. There remain now only 13 rubbers to be played. There will be no session today. Thursday night Howard Schenken will play as my husband's partner. I shall play the final session of this most interesting match Friday night.

While I cannot say that I regret its approaching end, I have enjoyed every minute of it and particularly do I appreciate the thousands of letters received from friends in all parts of the country.

By SIDNEY S. LENZ.

(Copyright, 1932.)

We succeeded in cutting down the score a little more last night, gaining 2660 points for the session. We won six out of eight rubbers, and our total gain for the evening was not larger because our opponents scored a slam in the last rubber, thus holding the gain on this rubber to 50 points. Our present minus score amounts to 14,175 points, with two more sessions to go.

Mr. Culbertson had a new partner last night, Michael T. Gottlieb, and he started off very well, bidding and making three no-trump. We equalized the score on the next hand, making game with four hearts. The hand follows:

J109
KQ53
AQ552

(C.) NORTH (G'IEB)
7653 EAST
74 SOUTH J842
KJ1032

Commander Liggett opened the bidding with one heart, which I immediately raised to four hearts and we made six. Of course, our opponents always passed. Certainly a club lead would have made the play a slam rather disagreeable, as my partner would have been compelled to risk the spade finesse and order to throw off a losing club from the dummy before he pulled trumps; the slam also would have been impossible if Mr. Gottlieb had held three hearts.

We lost the first rubber on the very next hand, and once again it was Mr. Gottlieb who scored the game. We won the second rubber in two hands. While we also won the next two rubbers, they were not so easy as the previous one. For different reasons two of the hands were rather interesting. The following hand proved to be a bit of luck for us:

(LENZ)
KQ9542
J104
K643
KQ

(C.) NORTH (G'IEB)
J106 EAST
JQ97 SOUTH J842

Both sides were vulnerable. After I had passed, as dealer, Gottlieb bid one heart which my partner passed. Culbertson raised to two hearts and I interjected a two-spade bid. When Mr. Gottlieb went to four hearts, Commander Liggett made a sporty bid of four spades and everybody passed. The Commander realized, of course, that because of our vulnerability I would not have made the two-spade bid very lightly, and that I must have had almost an opening bid, or a strong spade suit; he really did not count on making the contract, but was willing to take a set of one trick (and it should not exceed this) in order to save the rubber. Our hands fitted perfectly, and we made our four-spade contract and won the rubber.

The next hand is a typical example of a slam which should not be bid, although it is an absolute lay-down:

We were vulnerable and our opponents were not. Gottlieb opened the bidding, fourth hand, with one heart. Culbertson bid one no-trump and when Mr. Gottlieb asked to two no-trump Culbertson went to three no-trump, and they made six. My partner and I passed during the entire auction.

It can easily be seen that there is no lead or play in the hand that could stop a slam at no-trump, but an even distribution of hearts and the spade finesse were necessary for its success. Therefore, "he Gives you 3 times more for your money

... yet kills germs in 10 seconds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far, because it can be diluted with 2 parts of water. That's economy for you. Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength?

WE stress the great economy of Pepsodent Antiseptic because it convincingly proves Pepsodent Antiseptic's unique germ-killing power. When fighting colds, sore throat and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and still be effective! Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted with water! Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and sore throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics... and it kills germs when diluted.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 6.—Norman Wagner, 6-foot 4-inch University of Missouri center, of St. Louis, a former Normandy High School star, last night led the Missouri basketball team to a 37-to-27 victory over the Washington Bears, totaling 16 of his team's 37 points.

It was largely the return to form of the big St. Louis boy, who this season had been shifted from a forward berth to the tip off post, that accounted for the Tiger reversal in form after the Missourians had played sluggishly in losing three out of four previous encounters. Wagner's contribution to the Tiger victory was not all goal shooting, for he played well defensively, holding Bob Mayack, regular Bear center, and his understudy, Howey, to one field goal for their combined efforts.

Tigers Get Early Start.

The Missourians gave a forecast of what was to come by running up seven points in the first three minutes before the Bears could score. Wagner opened the scoring with a setup with Herb Steidman, Bear guard, fouling him as he made it. Wagner converted the free toss and a moment later counted two more charity throws. Joe Palmyra, Bear guard, followed with an "unconscious" goal from midcourt.

Meyer Landwehr, guard, broke the scoring ice for the Bears with short effort from under the goal and by the end of five minutes the Bears were trailing 5 to 9 as the result of free throws by Mayack, Whitehouse and Steidman with a setup by Cooper being the scoring opportunity.

The Bear offensive clicked for the remaining 15 minutes of the first period, and the half ended with the score deadlocked, 12 to 12.

The Missourians, however, swept back into a lead at the outset of the second half, with Wagner opening the scoring with a short one under the hoop. With Wagner accounting for three more points under the basket and Cooper for one of the same variety within the first five minutes of the closing period, the Tigers soon had a 22-to-18 margin.

From then on it was all Missouri. The Tiger led varying little from the final 10-point margin. Apparently hopelessly behind, the Bears, now with a record of one game won in five starts, will continue their schedule against Creighton at St. Louis Saturday night.

ST. LOUIS FENCERS DEFEAT WASHINGTON U.

John Muxux was the individual star for Washington U., winning three out of four bouts. Lawrence Gregory also turned in a good performance for the Bears, with two victories in three bouts. Lon Hooker Jr., with two victories, and Conway Brice, with two victories and one loss, starred for the winners.

Ticket Bargains Put Wrestling On the Map Again, in Memphis

Charley Rentrop Adopts Tom Packs' Method to Put Over the Game in a "Big Way," in Two Cities.

By Damon Kerby.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 6.—Tom Packs, St. Louis wrestling promoter, is the indirect "savior" of the wrestling game here, according to Memphis newspaper men, who credit Packs' cut-rate ticket plan, adopted here recently, with reviving interest in the grapplers. Wrestling shows are held every Monday night at the City Auditorium—61 having been held in 1931—and under the "slip" plan Memphis has become wrestling conscious in a big way.

Monday night—a rainy evening here—about 3000 turned out to watch that prize package, George Zaharias, do his stuff against Jim McMillen, the former Illinois collegian. Zaharias' very name is, by word, if not worse, in these parts. He appears here two or three times a month, and is extremely unpopular. But what does he care for the boos of the crowd as long as he pursues hold out?

Charles Rentrop, who has been seen in St. Louis as a wrestling promoter, is the Memphis promoter and also the Memphis referee. In the City Auditorium he has a wonderful place in which to hold his programs, the building, located downtown, having a seating capacity of approximately 12,000. The largest crowd to attend a wrestling show here was 9700, according to Rentrop, that being the paid figure for a match between Jimmy Londos and Karl Polojlo.

Season Tickets Sold.

Rentrop has had another "bargain" ticket plan in operation during the past year, by which the spectator was given the opportunity to buy a season "pass," but this plan has not been so successful. A season "pass," with a guarantee of 45 shows, may be purchased for $45—the buyer receiving a "two dollar seat" for each show. Only 31 Memphis fans availed themselves of this money-saving plan during the past year, according to Rentrop.

Do the Memphis newspapers take wrestling seriously? Here is what Herbert Caldwell, sports editor of the Commercial Appeal, has to say: "When crowds turn out in such numbers to watch something that comes under the general head of sport, you have to treat it as news. But playing wrestling up seriously, with championships at stake, etc., is something else again. It all seems down to the fact that wrestling is a good show—most of these people out here pay 50 cents to get in, and they get their money's worth in entertainment. We put it down as harmless entertainment and let it go at that."

All the thrills—and even some extra ones—familiar to St. Louis wrestling fans, were in evidence at the show. Something that might be a little out of the ordinary for St. Louis occurred when our old friend George Tragos and another Greek, with championships at stake, etc., took the floor in the sides around the ring. Tragos, managed to keep ahead of the boy Nestor, who was seeking revenge for having been

BILLIKENS WORK King Tut, Substituted HARD FOR GAME For Eddie Ran, to Box WITH GRINNELL Brady Here, Jan. 13

A long, hard scrimmage yesterday spelled preparation for the St. Louis University cagers as they polished up their offense for the Grinnell College quintet of Grinnell, Ia., which plays the Billikens here Saturday night at the St. Louis sym. 3672 West Pine boulevard.

Despite three consecutive victories scored by the Billikens, Coach Mike Nyikos feels that his scoring machine has not functioned properly. During the workout he used Capt. Frank Kennedy, St. Louis boy, and Owen McCarthy of Joliet, Ill., as forwards, alternating this regular pair with Jim Shea and Don Marr.

Coach Nyikos swung his football men into the combination, using lanky Don Philip, 210-pounder, at center. Philip has improved his game considerably since he first reported. He is an understudy to Leo (Babe) Grandone, regular center, who hails from Gillespie, Ill. At guards were Arnold Arens and Fred Frost. This pair has played most of this season's games and the Billiken mentor has been well satisfied with their style. In yesterday's session, however, he reserved his reserves in Joe Connors and Benny La Presta. La Presta, Arens and Manuel Rapp, all grid stars, reported for the cage sport with Capt. Frank Kennedy at the close of the session.

Another Practice Today.

Victorious in four of their six games, the Billikens will go through another heavy workout today against Coach Eddie Davidson's freshman five. The yearlings are using the Grinnell attack and defense styles against the variety. The Grinnell Pioneers, who are St. Louis on Saturday with a clean record. Two of their victories were scored over Drake and the Oklahoma Aggies, both scheduled foes of the Billikens. The Pioneers have a veteran team of four lettermen and two reserves from last year's outfit. Dick Ulrich and De Witt McCreary, both guards of last season; Frank Duncan, a eager of football fame, who is a forward; Don Rowe, another forward, and Paul Edman, center, make up the most likely combination for Grinnell. Oscar Christofferson, 1931 football captain, also plays with Grinnell cagers.

Doubleheader Arranged.

An added attraction for Saturday's game is the preliminary at 7:30 p. m. between the Billiken freshmen and Harris Teachers' College. This will be the first appearance of the freshmen five. They will play about a dozen games this season, including a home-and-home series with the Washington U. frosh.

Between halves of Saturday's game, gymnastic exhibitions on parallel bars will be given by members of the North St. Louis and Concordia Turners, under the direction of Walter C. Eberhardt. Billiken physical director. Special numbers by the variety cheer leaders and the band are added features of the main attraction. The Billiken-Pioneer game, will start at 8:30 p. m.

King Tut, Substituted For Eddie Ran, to Box MADISON FIVE DROPPED EIGHT; SCORE UPSET DETROIT HAS CUT OFF SEVEN MEN

Informed by State Athletic Commissioner Seneca Taylor late yesterday that Eddie Ran, the Polish welterweight champion, could not fight here two days after he is scheduled to box on a benefit card in New York, Promoter Eddie "Kid" Bandy was for a time without an opponent for Jackie Brady, the Syracuse (N. Y.) 147-pound star, in the 10-round main event of the fight program that he will stage at the Coliseum next Wednesday night. But not for long.

The little promoter immediately got into communication with Ernest Fliegel, manager of King Tut, in Minneapolis, and the fight pilot immediately accepted the terms offered for the contest. Tut, at the direction of Fliegel, will leave Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been training, tomorrow, and will be here the following day to start putting the finishing touches on his conditioning at the National gymnasium.

As the king is rated much higher than Ran by the fight experts and is also a prime favorite here because of his knockout victories over Russell Leroy and Jole Kaufman at the Arena last winter, Promoter Bandy was elated over the turn of events that forced him to change his main event.

Brady Accepts.

The substitution was acceptable to Brady, who when signing for the Jan. 13 engagement had agreed to meet any opponent weighing 147 pounds or less that Promoter Bandy cared to select.

The possibility that Commissioner Taylor will recommend the suspension of Ran for accepting the New York bout after agreeing to Bandy's terms loomed today. Bandy declared that he would not ask that the lad be suspended.

Commissioner Taylor's action emphasized his determination to keep in effect the ruling of the commission that a fighter appearing on a St. Louis program must arrive here three days in advance of his engagement.

King Tut's manager denied the report, wired from Milwaukee yesterday, that the "King" had been signed to fight Ran at Chicago Jan. 15.

Promoter Bandy said the acquisition of Tut would bring no advance in the ticket prices, even though the "King" is one of the most popular fighters in America. They will remain at 50 cents, $1, $2 and $3 for the choice ringside seats.

No ring card in St. Louis would be complete without Johnny "Pease" Brady, so Bandy signed the hard-hitting little featherweight for one of the two eight-round bouts on his program. No opponent has been selected for Kaiser, but the promoter said today he would obtain a fighter capable of extending the St. Louis veteran.

Bandy had originally intended to make the 10-round contest between Angus Snyder, the young Port Dodge (Kan.) heavyweight, and John Schwake, Webster Groves "fat boy," the semi-middleweight on the card, but the arrival of Snyder yesterday created so much interest in the bout that the promoter has decided to dignify it by labeling the two features a "double main event."

Snyder appeared in excellent condition, but a better decision on this will be made by the boxing fans today, when they see the Kansas farmer boy work out at the National gymnasium.

Schwake's stock took a big leap yesterday, after the newspapers carried the announcement that Salvatore Ruggiero had knocked out Walter Cobb in the first round of a bout in New York Monday night.

Cobb was a heavy and each world's best heavyweights by Eastern critics. Schwake outpointed Ruggiero last fall, and in the opinion of the experts at the ringside would have knocked him out if the contest had gone a few more rounds.

The bouts were arranged as part of the Jan. 13 program one of the finest fight cards ever promised the fans here, and Promoter Bandy is expecting a good gate.

Hard to Guess.

THE 1932 Kentucky Derby probably will be remembered in bookmaking annals as the biggest guessing contest in history. The earliness of the date (May 7), the inconsistencies shown by most of the eligibles in their two-year-old form, with the exception of Top Flight, and the probability that this great performer will not be prepared for the big race, have tended to make the event the most open Derby in years.

The situation is reflected in the early winter book betting. According to Commissioner Tom Kearney, the Derby today is "10 to 1 and take your pick of the entire field."

"I bet Top Flight will not be trained and have lapsed her as a doubtful starter. Even should she be entered her sex is against her," Kearney explained. "There are some good horses sure to start, but at this time it is impossible to guess which of the standouts will be kept in the East to wait for the Preakness, rather than ship West for the Derby, one week earlier."

If Top Flight fails to enter, there is no doubt that Tick On will be made the favorite. At the present the situation is so doubtful that 10 to 1 and take your pick is the best I can do."

The Dark Horse.

THERE is one two-year-old, not often mentioned locally, that will attract attention and plenty of wagering, later on. This is Sweeping Light, a colt that ran some good races as a two-year-old and is owned by Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt. In two of his races last year he showed enough to finish second to Top Flight and Tick On, respectively. In the Hopeful Stakes he was off almost last in a huge field and passed 14 horses on his journey, finishing second behind Tick On. He has shown a tendency to "go round" that promises well for his Derby caliber.

Furthermore, he is now quartered at Douglas Park, Louisville, where he is said to be undergoing light training. He will become acclimated right on the ground and will get his training over Churchill Downs track where the Derby will be run.

He is now quoted at as good as 15 to 1. In some books, and he will be heard from if he is sent to the post, in the opinion of those who saw him race as a two-year-old.

Pittsburg Teachers Win 48th Straight Basketball Game

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 6.—The basketball team of the Pittsburg Teachers won their 48th straight game last night at the expense of the Southwest Missouri Teachers, whose victory over the Grinnells in the preceding the latter's victory streak. The score was 41 to 24.

Captain Wacker took the individual scoring honors with 17 points. Schmidt, Pittsburg, and Scroggins, Springfield, each counted for 11 points.

Two upsets marked resumption of play in the Southwest Missouri High School basketball race last night. The greatest surprise was the defeat of the East St. Louis machine by the Green and White of Madison High, 23 to 15. The other upset was the defeat of Alton Hilltoppers by the Woodville Oilers, in an overtime contest, 15 to 18.

In other games, Granite City won from the strong Belleville Maroons, 31 to 15, while Collinsville defeated Edwardsville, 37-12. Granite City and Madison are tied for the lead in the league with 10 wins each, owning two victories.

East St. Louis seemed to be the Green and White scored 15 field goals in the final quarter to go ahead. Sawicki led the team in attack with six field goals and five made layups. Madison won the scoring crown, player Jack Sanders was the star for the loss with 10 markers.

Woodruff showed vast improvement over his first contest in losing the Alton one. The game was hard fought and Woodruff served the victory.

Granite City's showing against the Belleville Maroons makes the team one of the favorites for the title. Taylor and Cardner led the happy team.

Coach Bill Larson's Collinsville Hawks came to life to overwhelm Edwardsville. Therman Park was the Kahoks' star. Tenor was the star for the loss.

BEFORE THE YOUNG BOYS BECAME OUTLAWS AND KILLERS

About seventeen years ago, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Young of Springfield, Mo., were proud of their eleven children and had the family group picture taken, which is shown above. Left to right in photo are, (first row) Florence, now Mrs. T. T. Mackey of Houston, Tex.; Mrs. and Mr. J. D. Young, parents of the flock; Venita Young, youngest; Kettie, now Mrs. Kendall of Wichita, Kan.; Lorena, recently held in jail with Venita; Mary Ellen, now Mrs. Mashburn of Frederick, Ok., and Harry, the killers' leader. Second row, Jennings, Oscar, Jarrott, Paul and Mrs. Gladys Brunor of Frederick, Ok. Harry and Jennings, the two men guilty of the killing of six peace officers near Springfield, Jan. 2, were slain at Houston Tex., Jan. 5. All of the other children are still living.

MARCHING THROUGH CHINA'S GREAT WALL

Japanese infantry entering Manchuria through a gap in the great barrier built many hundreds of years ago by the Chinese.

PICKING OUT A DATE

A guide and hostess bureau in New York is now in operation which will provide, for a fee, an escort for either a lonely young man or woman, and photographs of available candidates are kept on hand so that a selection may be made on looks.

LADIES OF ANOTHER ERA

Two participants in the ancient but always colorful Mummers' Parade on New Year's day in Philadelphia—an annual outdoor event witnessed by hundreds of thousands of spectators.

A DAY OFF FROM HIGHER MATHEMATICS

Prof. Albert Einstein congratulating Mrs. Georgia Chobe and some of the children who rode on prize-winning floral float at the Pasadena Rose Festival on New Year's day.

BASEBALL STARS IN THE OFF SEASON

On left, Dazzy Vance, star pitcher of the Brooklyn Nationals, showing how he can entice red fish to his hook down in Florida, and, on right, no less a celebrity than Mickey Cochrane, star catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics (ask Pepper Martin) back from barnstorming trip to Japan and just fooling around with a saxophone.

Mrs. John Francis Weinman of Little Rock, Ark., who will be one of the guests at the Jackson day luncheon to be given by the St. Louis chapter of the United States Daughters of 1812, of which she is national historian.

Mme. Mitzi Perroti, attaché of the Greek Embassy in Berlin, the only woman with an official position in diplomatic circles in Europe.

IDEAL TRAFFIC OFFICER

Police Sergeant Patrick J. Kelley of Summit, N.J., is 6 feet 4 inches in height, and weighs 384 pounds. Can any motorists say they couldn't see him?

TROTTING MATCHES HELD ON SNOW TRACK

Berlin has gone in heavily for this form of sport and the horses make quite as good time dragging sleighs as they do the ordinary type of sulky.

FORE SWEEPING ACTION ALSO TAKEN

ature of This Is Not Disclosed — Stimson's Decision Made After Consultation With the Other Signatories.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—In an expression of concern over Japan's occupation of Manchuria, the American Government today notified Tokyo that the United States would adhere to its rights under the various applicable international agreements, including the Nine-Power pact and the Kellogg-Briand treaty.

A note was sent and will be made public shortly, reaffirming in different terms the American interest in the recent events in the Far East. Officials would not discuss the note, nor forecast what action might be taken to protect American rights.

The nine-power treaty was a mutual agreement to respect the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

The Kellogg pact renounced war as an instrument of national policy. Japan signed both of the treaties.

The first clause of the nine-power treaty pledges the signatory nations to "respect the sovereignty, independence and territorial and administrative integrity of China, and, also, to refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of citizens or citizens of friendly powers."

Secretary Stimson had been consulted over the question of representatives here, of Great Britain and France.

The difficulties between China and Japan have become increasingly acute of late.

The original parties to the nine-power pact were the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands and Portugal.
